His Adjutant Dies of Bullet Assassin Fired

SOPIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 11 (AP)—Major Stoyanoff, adjutant of Major General Jordan Peyeff, above, chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, died today of wounds suffered in a futile attempt to save the general from an assassin.

Dr. Stanisheff, rector of the State University Medical School and one of Bulgaria's best known surgeons, was attempting to save the life of the slayer, Stoi Kiroff, who shot down the general and his adjutant yesterday and then turned his guns upon himself.

Official quarters maintained silence on Kiroff's possible motives. General Peyeff was not known to have had either personal or political enemies. Kiroff was described as a former policeman.

Nice Asks O'Connor To Be Consistent In Tax Statements

Governor Declares Opponent Asked for Cigarette Levy Last Year

Asks Him to Explain Why He Has A Different Policy for 1938

Hyattsville, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—Gov. Harry W. Nice's Republican campaign caravan rolled into northern Prince Georges county tonight and gave the governor an opportunity to poke fun at the "convenient failure of memory" of his Democratic opponent, Attorney General Herbert R. O'Connor.

On the outskirts of the state's important tobacco belt, Governor Nice fired another gun in his bid for reelection by asserting O'Connor had, in 1937, recommended a cigarette tax and an increase in real estate taxes — two planks he was notably absent from the O'Connor fiscal program now.

Sees "Failure of Memory"

"It would appear," said the governor, "that the jewel of consistency has become somewhat tarnished. It is well not to tarnish consistency."

17-Year Old Girl Is Found Murdered

Mary Coyle of Larchmont, N. Y., Brutally Beaten; Coat Is Missing

Larchmont, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—The body of pretty 17-year-old Mary Coyle who left home Monday night to attend a church service a few blocks away was found brutally beaten today in a parking lot in the business district of this New York city suburb.

An autopsy disclosed an assault had been committed and she had been beaten, apparently with a hammer or a wrench. There was a small hole in her forehead and a bigger one in the back of her head.

A brown coat she had worn was missing and detectives indicated a belief she was killed elsewhere. Her body was found by the owner of a spaniel, attracted by the animal's barking.

The only apparent clue consisted of strands of blond hair, clutched in her hands.

The girl was regarded by her family as deeply religious. When she failed to return home last night, a five-state alarm was broadcast.

O'Connor Denies He Violated Law In Primary Campaign

Draws Legal Line Between Own Expenditures and Those of Backers

Declares His Report Shows He Personally Spent Only $2,000

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert O'Connor drew a legal line between a political candidate and the candidate's financial backers today, in describing as "untrue, impertinent and scandalous" a charge he violated the state corrupt practices act by spending $69,263 in his recent successful campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The charge was made by Herbert M. Brune, Jr., independent gubernatorial candidate, in a petition filed in Superior Court yesterday accusing O'Connor of spending about $65,000 more than he should have spent under the law.

Brune, and nine other petitioners asserted O'Connor should not have spent more than $4,250, since the statute specifies campaign expenditures are limited by a scale based on the number of voters eligible to cast ballots.

Denies He Violated Law

O'Connor filed an answer and a demurrer to the action, denying he had violated the law, and contending his report of campaign expenditures showed he personally had spent only $2,000. Under the "uniform practical interpretation" of the corrupt practices act, the answer stated, O'Connor was not violating the law when his backers spent more than $67,000 in addition.

"The allegation . . . that the campaign expenditures of the defendant . . . exceeded by more than $65,000 the amount which he might lawfully expend . . . is . . . untrue, impertinent and scandalous," O'Connor's answer asserted.

"The uniform practical interpretation of the corrupt practices act of Maryland since its enactment has been that the act does not limit the amount which may be expended in behalf of a statewide candidate to $4,250 as contended by the petitioners.

Others Spent Large Sums

"On the contrary, it has been the uniform practice to expend sums far in excess of this amount . . . specifically, the defendant has been advised that in the Democratic campaign of 1930, there was expended in behalf of the Democratic candidate for governor and his running mates over $125,000, and in the same election there was expended on behalf of the unsuccessful Republican opponent and his running mates a sum in excess of $48,000."

In 1934, the answer added, Gov. Harry W. Nice won election with expenditures of approximately $30,000 for himself and his running mates.

Will Make Eight New Ships

The two new battleships would increase the number of new capital craft to eight started or authorized since restrictions of the 1921 naval treaty expired at the end of 1936. Two already are under construction, bids for three others will be opened October 19, and the navy intends to build another in the naval yards.

All will be 35,000-ton ships, costing a minimum of $70,000,000 each.

The president's remarks came in connection with a recent complaint by Governor Polinder of Hawaii that too much public works money was being spent there on defense matters while municipal improvements suffered.

The president indicated he thought the present ratio would have to be continued, in view of the authorized program and the world situation, about which he made no further comment.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to LaFarge

Tapping of Wires Case Argued Before Court

North Kingstown, R. I., Oct. 11 (AP)—Christopher Grant LaFarge, 76, whose architectural genius ranged from designing awe inspiring cathedrals to utilitarian subway stations, died suddenly today at his home after suffering a heart attack.

Monuments to his designing skill — the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York and that city's subway stations built under the rapid transit commission, to name a few — stand in great cities throughout the United States.

Father of Oliver LaFarge, 1929 Pulitzer prize-winning author of "Laughing Boy," LaFarge designed, too, all the buildings at the New York Zoological Park and during the World War, while he was connected with the U. S. Housing Commission, he drew the plans for the U. S. naval hospital at Brooklyn.

Evangelist Given Tar and Feathers

Marietta, O., Oct. 11 (AP)—Found suffering from shock beside a highway, Joseph A. Dixon, 42-year-old evangelist, told State Highway Patrolman John Mundrake today that he was tarred and feathered last night.

Dixon asserted a gang of men broke up a revival meeting, drove him into the country, beat and stripped him before applying the tar.

The evangelist, who said his home was in Madison, S. D., was conducting the revival in celebration of his marriage yesterday to 22-year-old Opal V. Hasley.

The couple was married over the objections of her father, Wesley Hasley, who preferred charges of misconduct against Dixon in the court of Justice of Peace N. E. Kidd. Justice Kidd dismissed the charges for lack of evidence.

House of Murders In Harford County Goes Begging for Tenant

Berlin, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—Seven years ago today a neighbor found the blood spattered bodies of Green K. Davis, his wife and two daughters — and the house has been vacant ever since.

The two floor frame house at Taylorville, three miles east of here has been examined by many prospective tenants but they turned away on hearing stories of the slaying.

Davis and his wife were found dead in their bed in an upper floor bedroom. In an adjoining room his two daughters lay dead. They had been shot and bludgeoned.

Euel Lee, a Virginia negro farmhand, was accused of the crime and fought for his life in seven courts, including the U. S. Supreme Court, before he was hanged for the quadruple slaying in October, 1933.

Roosevelt Wants $150,000,000 for Navy During 1939

Sharp Increase In National Defense Budget Seen By the President

Money Will Go for New Ships Already Authorized By Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—A large increase in the 1939 national defense budget was foreseen today by President Roosevelt who explained that the navy alone needs $150,000,000 more next year to start new warships already authorized by Congress.

Such an increase would bring the nation's annual arms budget up to within striking distance of a billion and a half dollars, or more than twice as much as national defense was costing only a decade ago. The total, however, still is far under the $1,744,000,000 spent in post-war 1920 before naval disarmament set in and wartime expenses were slashed.

The 1938 appropriations for the war and navy departments finally reached $1,322,947,452, which included direct and deficiency appropriations, and public works allotments.

Says Navy Needs $150,000,000

The president said today that at least $150,000,000 must be provided the navy next year to start construction of new ships which have been authorized by Congress, but for which the money has not yet been appropriated.

The navy received $619,933,244 this year, while the war department was given $703,024,208 for its entire program, including civil functions such as river, harbor and flood control work.

The new warships mentioned are included in the billion dollar naval expansion program, scheduled to be realized over a ten-year period.

Will Make Eight New Ships

The two new battleships would increase the number of new capital craft to eight started or authorized since restrictions of the 1921 naval treaty expired at the end of 1936. Two already are under construction, bids for three others will be opened October 19, and the navy intends to build another in the naval yards.

Maryland's Parole Head Reaches Into County to Free Man

Says Law Gives Him Jurisdiction Over Prisoners Outside State Prisons

Commissioner J. Cookman Boyd Seeks Release for Violator Liquor Laws

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—Parole Commissioner J. Cookman Boyd recommended freedom today for a prisoner in the Harford county jail, calling attention to a provision in the state law giving him jurisdiction over prisoners in institutions other than the state penitentiary and the house of correction.

The law, he said, provides that the commissioner may consider the case "of any person sentenced under the laws of Maryland."

Acting under that section, he recommended to Gov. Harry W. Nice that Nicholas Kirchgessner, 53-year-old grocery store owner, be paroled from a one year term for selling alcoholic liquor without a license.

Ill with Heart Trouble

Kirchgessner, Boyd said, has served five months of his term, and is suffering from heart trouble. His offense, the commissioner said, involved the sale of two bottles of beer. The parole would be based on Kirchgessner's pledge to "refrain from any violation of the law for three years."

His case was one of the few handled from county jails by the parole commissioner's office, Boyd said.

Farmer Refused Parole

He refused a parole for Lloyd Turner, 25, Virginia farmer convicted in Montgomery county in March, 1937 of assault and battery on a Kensington woman. Boyd said parole officers reported Turner was "weak-willed, intemperate, and unreliable." He is serving a three-year term.

Turner escaped from the state penal farm a month after his term began, and was recaptured in Virginia a month later.

One other prisoner among the 12 applying today drew a favorable recommendation. He was Alex Brooks, negro, sentenced from Prince Georges county to two years for assault and battery. The case of Robert Ingram, Harford county, serving two and a half years for carrying weapons, was held over for further consideration.

Barring Strachey Stirs Publishers

Seek to Secure Visa for British Author Now Held At Ellis Island

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—John Strachey, British author and lecturer barred from the United States, received the sympathetic attention of a group of American book publishers today.

Twenty-one officials of book publishing houses wired Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Labor Perkins:

"As publishers, we vigorously protest cancelling John Strachey's visa. The preservation of American democratic tradition depends on the freedom of the people to hear any point of view. We ask that this visa be restored immediately."

Strachey was detained at Ellis Island following his arrival yesterday. Immigration officials said the United States visa on his British passport had been cancelled in London a few hours before he sailed.

A special board of inquiry at Ellis Island supported the officials by confirming that the visa was void.

High-Ranking State Official Faces Task of Signing His Name 5,358 Times

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—State Comptroller William S. Gordy, Jr., stood out today as one of five high-ranking state officials who apparently don't mind signing his name 5,358 times.

Between Oct. 22 and Nov. 1, Gordy, Hooper S. Miles, state treasurer, and the three members of the state roads commission must sign the $1,000 bonds which make up the commission's recent $5,358,000 refunding bond issue.

Each must sign every bond without a mistake in pen and ink. Members of the roads commission and Miles hunted out a multi-signature device in New York City and will make a flying trip there Oct. 24 to sign 20 times at once, thereby using the pens only 268 times.

Gordy elected to sign the 5,358, one at a time, in Baltimore. This meant, roads commission officials said, that the bonds must be brought here from New York. Once Gordy has signed them, they become negotiable securities, and "just like $5,358,000 in gold," officials explained.

Scottish Nationalist Group Fears Benes Rectorship Candidacy Hoax

Glasgow, Oct. 11 (AP)—Members of the Scottish Nationalist Association who earlier today announced Former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia had agreed to be their candidate for the rectorship of Glasgow university, tonight decided they had been made the victims of a hoax.

The Czechoslovak legation in London denied the earlier announcement that Dr. Benes had agreed to be a candidate for the honorary post, saying he had "not even considered the invitation yet."

The nationalists issued a statement explaining the hoax tonight. They said they received a telegram from London, which they accepted in good faith, saying the former Czechoslovak president had agreed to be their candidate.

"But since it was generally known in official university circles that Benes had been approached by the nationalists we now believe this communication may be a hoax on the part of some opposition clubs," the nationalist statement said.

The nationalists still are hoping that Dr. Benes will give his acceptance, however. Names for the position will be lodged at noon tomorrow.

It was believed other candidates would retire from the field if Dr. Benes accepted. One of them, Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the liberal opposition in the House of Commons, already had sent a telegram to the University Liberal Association in which he said he would be delighted to retire in favor of Benes.

William Powell, Scottish journalist and author, had told a meeting of 500 university students that Benes had accepted. The rectorship is a purely honorary post, carries no salary, and entails no residential duties. Scottish university rectorships previously have been held by distinguished foreign statesmen.

Posters were put up at the meeting reading, "Vote for Benes, the man who saved the world."

The election is to be Oct. 22.

Benes resigned as president of Czechoslovakia to "facilitate rehabilitation of the country after cessation of the Sudetenland to Germany. He had been the chief personal target of anti-Czechoslovak propaganda in Germany."

Asks Emergency Fact-Finding Board to Look Into History of Roads

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—A railroad labor witness charged today that the demand for a 15 per cent wage reduction came from "a small inner group of so-called investment bankers symbolized and dominated by the private banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co."

W. Jeff Lauck, economist for railroad brotherhoods, urged President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board to look into the financial history of railroads before deciding upon the wage reduction against which 1,000,000 workers have voted a protest strike.

"There is an emergency, but not from the public or employees' standpoint," Lauck said. "It is an emergency for the private banking (Continued on Page Two)

Mrs. Lucas Free As Escort Sets Sail

Her Swim In Scanties and Yells for Midshipmen Still A Mystery

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—The villain has been shipped to sea and Mrs. Buryll Lucas, 23, found it unnecessary tonight to explain to court why she went swimming in scanties near the naval academy and then yelled for help from three midshipmen.

Mrs. Lucas was arraigned tonight before Magistrate Joseph W. Armstrong after being charged with disorderly conduct two Saturdays ago. She was pulled out of the Severn river at 4 a. m. by three midshipmen who were awakened by her shouts. After naval physicians administered restoratives and loaned her pajamas, she was taken home in an ambulance but police said she broke away from the navy attendant and attempted to jump into the river again.

Magistrate Armstrong continued the case and ordered county policeman Brooke Meade to bring in the navy enlisted man whom he said had been her escort when he decided to go swimming.

"I was unable to serve the subpoena," explained policeman Meade tonight, "on account of I learned he shipped out to sea."

Magistrate Armstrong dismissed the case with admonitions she keep out of the river.

Guard of Honor For Dr. Crumlish

Senior Classmen Watch Over Remains of Beloved College Teacher

Emmitsburg, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—A guard of honor made up of senior classmen of Mount-St. Mary's college watched tonight over the body of Dr. John J. Crumlish who was killed by an automobile Sunday night after teaching here for 50 years.

Through the night groups of six seniors alternated while the college students and teachers prepared for the final rites of the Catholic church.

A solemn requiem mass will be celebrated in the college chapel at 9:30 tomorrow morning by the Rt. Rev. John Lawrence Sheridan, president of the college. The Rev. Peter A. Coad, the Rev. Edmund S. Berry and the Rev. William F. Culhane will assist.

The Rt. Rev. Magr. John J. Tierney with whom Dr. Crumlish was closely associated during his long term as teacher of English and Latin will preach the eulogy.

Burial will be in St. Anthony's cemetery at Mt. Echo which overlooks the campus.

Dr. Crumlish, 73, was killed by an automobile driven by William Hudson Rhodes, 20, of Emmitsburg and a student at Gettysburg College, as he walked on the highway after midnight.

Constituents Oppose Duff Cooper's Course

London, Oct. 11 (AP)—Alfred Duff Cooper, who resigned as first lord of the admiralty because he disagreed with Prime Minister Chamberlain's peace of Munich policy, discovered today his constituents did not approve his action.

A committee of his electors announced it was in "complete agreement with the actions of the premier and the policy of the government."

The committee deferred decision, however, as to whether to accept Duff Cooper as its candidate for the next general election.

Refuse Unanimously to Enter Into Study of Episcopacy

Held Competent to Investigate Alone Value of the Episcopate

Baltimore, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The 11th convention of the United Lutheran Church in America voted 203 to 187 today to adopt "the principle of the United Lutheran Church control of theological education," after refusing unanimously to enter into a study of episcopacy with the national Lutheran council groups.

The report of a commission on the episcopacy, that is, government of the church by bishops, was presented by Dr. H. E. Turney, president of the Lutheran synod, who opposed adoption of the episcopacy by the church.

Already Have Bishops
"We have bishops now, only we do not call them by their right name," the Rev. C. E. Dozer, of Piquette, Pa., asserted. "No matter what the church may decide to call its presiding officer, I, as pastor of my congregation, will remain a bishop. Our confessions say that all who preside over the church are bishops."

Dr. Nathan Melhorn, of Philadelphia, editor of "The Lutheran," declared "we are perfectly competent to investigate alone the value of the episcopate and to decide for ourselves." In opposing cooperative study through the national Lutheran council.

Delegates received earlier a report which said attempts to unite all Lutheran denominations in this country "seem at a stalemate" although there is a "great extent of agreement and a slight extent of disagreement."

The report said the chief barrier now between the United Lutherans, the American Lutheran Church and the Missouri Synod is "a matter of theological interpretation which applies only to a non-existent original text of the scriptures."

Ask Extended Authority
The report, made by a commission of lay members, asks that the commission be given authority to continue further the negotiations which have gone on since 1935.

A report by a special pension committee, submitted to the delegates at the 11th biennial convention yesterday, was ordered returned to the committee for re-drafting and consideration by the 31 member synods during 1939.

The committee proposed a plan which would give retired ministers a pension in proportion to their earnings. The convention instructed the committee to provide for equal pensions for all. An effort was made to have the plan underwritten by a commercial insurance company, but the delegates defeated it.

Missionary Report Read
Mrs. Oscar C. Smith, of Philadelphia, presented the report of the women's missionary society covering an average annual income and disbursement of $380,000.

Dr. Paul Klopfer, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Luther League in America, stressed the admitted losses "among the youth of our congregations after confirmation," and urged the Luther League program as "the most important work of the church."

Defines Belief of Church
The convention also adopted a declaration defining the belief of the church as "the word of God and the scriptures."

The declaration, the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knobel, president of the convention explained, does not become a part of the confessional faith of the church. It was adopted after considerable debate among delegates. It asserted in part:

"That the whole of the Bible is inspired but that we cannot venture to describe the mode or method of this inspiration but accept it as a fact of which faith assures us."

"Holding these things to be true, we believe the scriptures are: The spring from which the saving power of God continuously flows into the lives of men, the only source of the truly Christian doctrine and the only rule and form for Christian faith and life."

Talman Dies, Making Third Crash Victim
New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Carroll Talman, 29, of Sagoy, W. Va., died in Queens General hospital today from skull and rib fractures and other injuries received Saturday when an automobile collided here with a 10-ton truck, killing his two companions in the car. They were John Tingle, 30, second engineer on the steamship Steel Inventor, and Wheeler Edwards, 29, of New York, owner of the car.

Weather In Nearby States
Western Pennsylvania—Fair, slightly warmer in east and north portions Wednesday; Thursday local showers.

West Virginia—Partly cloudy, slightly warmer Wednesday; Thursday local rains.

Baby Beaten—Mother Sought

Lighting Sky Like Full Moon With Radio Over 50 Mile Area Proposed

New York, Oct. 11.—A new use for radio, to light the sky 50 miles overhead as brightly as the full moon does, is proposed in Nature, British official science journal which arrived here today.

The new light would be an artificial aurora. A single radio station could cover a patch of sky 60 miles in diameter with this light. It would illuminate country roads as well as ordinary lighting systems would and could be used anywhere.

Two radio stations, WLW, of the Crosley Radio Corporation at Cincinnati, and RV-1 at Moscow, already have the power to make the preliminary tests, says the author of the proposal, Dr. V. A. Bailey, of the University of Sydney.

Both stations are 500 kilowatts. The next highest power in the United States is 50 kilowatts. The two stations, Dr. Bailey explains, would be able to produce small auroras. But, he adds, a million kilowatts, a power not out of reach, would light ten thousand square kilometers of sky equal to the full moon.

This lighting would be directly overhead and to a radius of 30 miles around the station. The principles of the new light are already in operation in laboratories, Dr. Bailey says.

One is the glow discharge lamp. Without wires or current, if placed in an electrical field, it gives a brilliant light from gas in the bulb which becomes "excited" by electricity.

The other principle is that of building up vibration by oscillation, like a child's swing that goes higher with each push.

Dr. Bailey says that if properly chosen radio waves are sent up against the ionized layer of air, known as the "E layer" which reflects broadcasting signals around the world, the air itself would glow the same as the gas-filled laboratory lamp.

Plead Not Guilty To Wife-Slapping
Two Suburban Syracuse Men Say They Are Innocent

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—Mrs. and Mrs. Alfred Gruner and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Doolittle, of suburban Syracuse, pleaded innocent in police court today to statutory arising out of what Inspector Fred Arnold said was a wife-slapping case.

Arnold said Mrs. Gruner, 34, and Mrs. Doolittle, 38, volunteered the information they were expectant mothers.

The four were taken in custody by a detective upon complaint of neighbors.

Inspector Arnold said Mrs. Doolittle told him Mrs. Gruner visited her last summer and announced she had been intimate with Mrs. Doolittle's husband and that she and her husband and child planned to move into the Doolittle home.

Arnold said Mrs. Doolittle told him the two families had lived together since August 1 in the Doolittle home. Mrs. Doolittle is the mother of three children.

Doolittle, 38, and Gruner, 47, are railroad firemen and police said they had known each other for 18 years.

Fortitude of Columbus Praised By Roosevelt
Washington, October 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt praised today the fortitude of Columbus and his companions on their voyage to the new world.

On the eve of Columbus Day, Mr. Roosevelt issued this statement: "Each recurrence of Columbus Day brings to all of us a greater appreciation of the heritage we have received as a result of the faith and courage and fortitude of the Genoese navigator and his brave companions."

"Because of their vision and determination we are sharers in a new world. We must devote to worthy uses the heritage which is ours."

Lindbergh Silent On Charges Hurlled By Soviet Fliers

Declines to Comment Upon Statement He Belittled Russian Airforce

Arrives In Berlin To Be Guest of American Military Attache

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, silent on bitter charges made against him by a group of prominent Soviet Russian aviators, arrived today by plane to attend the annual meeting of the Lillenthal society for aerial research.

The American airman declined to comment on the Soviet fliers' accusation that he belittled the Russian airforce and thus encouraged Anglo-French capitulation to Adolf Hitler's demands for Czechoslovak territory.

Guest of American
Lindbergh and his wife were greeted by Lieut.-Col. Truman Smith, military attache of the United States embassy, who will be their host while in Berlin.

(Eleven Soviet fliers published a letter in Moscow yesterday, alleging that Lindbergh made "insolent anti-Soviet utterances" following a trip to the Soviet union. The airman charged that Lindbergh stated before guests of Lady Astor, members of the British House of Commons, that the Soviet airforce was inefficient.

(Lady Astor said today there was "no truth" in the statement and that the Daily Worker, London Communist newspaper, was responsible for the report. The Daily Herald, labor newspaper, quoted her as saying it was "a complete lie" that Lindbergh ever made "any sort of pronouncement about the Russian air force or about anything else during a dinner party at my house.")

Dines With Sikorsky
I. I. Sikorsky, American aircraft designer and manufacturer, and D. W. Tomlinson, research flier for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., attended dinner with the Lindberghs tonight.

Sikorsky will discuss "the large flying boat" at the opening session of the society tomorrow and Tomlinson will give an address the next day on "high altitude flying observations and economic calculations."

Lindbergh is not scheduled to speak. The Lillenthal Society's patron is Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of Germany's air force. Its members include those of all German organizations and institutions conducting aviation research. The society was founded June 12, 1936.

Four honorary members of the society are Lieut.-Gen. Hermann Thomsen, chief of the general staff of German aviation forces during the world war; Lieut.-Col. Felix Wagenfuhrer, wartime, chief inspector of German aviation forces; Johann Schuette, builder of lighter-than-air craft; and Ludwig Duerr, chief designer of Germany's Zeppelins.

Delegates to the meeting will be given an opportunity to see some of Germany's scientific aviation institutions of which there are thirteen in Berlin, Hamburg and Munich, besides the aerodynamic research institute at Goettingen and the Sailplane research institute at Darmstadt.

This statement was made in a brief filed with the tribunal attacking the validity of a labor board order directing the Consolidated Edison company of New York to arbitrate a collective bargaining agreement with a federation affiliate. The court will hear oral argument of the case late this week.

The order, which was issued upon a complaint by the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America (CIO) directed Consolidated Edison to cease recognition of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A. F. of L.) and to reinstate six men found to have been dismissed for activity on behalf of the CIO affiliate.

Challenging this action, the brief contended that 30,000 of the 38,000 consolidated Edison employees belonged to the federation and that it was entitled to represent the men in collective bargaining.

Announce Examinations For State Positions
Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones announced today examinations for five positions in the state service would be held at western high school here Oct. 16.

Two hundred and sixty-seven applicants have successfully passed preliminary tests and are eligible to take the examinations, Jones said.

Positions involved are industrial inspector, laboratory technician, public health nurse, senior stenographer (accounting) and secretary-stenographer. One hundred and twenty-eight applicants have filed for the latter position.

'Crackpot Pension Plans' Studied By Officials
Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—Social security board officials had under consideration today a report prepared by their economic experts describing the variety of pension plans being proposed over the country as an "epidemic of crackpot pension schemes."

While board members refrained from commenting publicly on such plans as California's "30-every-Thursdays" proposal the opinion set forth by the experts was that the plans "must be taken seriously only because their surface plausibility has succeeded in deluding so many millions of the aged, their friends and relatives."

Frederick's Thoroughly Sterilized Fair Opens With Only One Girl Show
Frederick, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—A thoroughly sterilized fair opened here today with considerably less concessionaires in the "try your luck" section of the midway and only one girl show where last year there were three.

Heeding the warning of the Frederick fair directors, that gambling and girls would not be tolerated, Police Chief Allen, Bartgis made the rounds of concessions and warned two concessionaires to close up or go to court. They hurriedly removed their spinning wheel and assortment of blankets and dolls.

The girl show drew a large audience. Named "The Streets of Paris," after its Chicago World's Fair predecessor where Sally Rand brought ostrich farmers back from bankruptcy, the show was not modest. The dancing girls were well

British Disperse Fighting Arabs In Palestine Sector

Take Five Prisoners and Confiscate Rifles and Ammunition

Destroy Homes of 21 Arabs Because of Attacks On Military Police

(By The Associated Press)
Jerusalem, Oct. 11.—An attempt to assassinate the British district governor of Jerusalem and another battle against Arab outposts marked the bitter dispute today among Arabs, Jews and British authorities attempting to restore order.

Four bombs were hurled at Edward Keith-Roach's auto from the old city walls in front of the Rockefeller museum.

Keith-Roach, governor since 1931, escaped injury as did occupants of two military escort cars and a police car which accompanied him.

British Troops Called Out
Reinforcements of British troops were called out in northern Palestine to assist police in battling an Arab band near Mount Carmel where in Biblical times Elijah offered sacrifices.

Throughout the night British forces engaged the band which was strengthened by the addition of many Arab villagers. Troops dispersed the Arabs at dawn, taking five prisoners and confiscating rifles and ammunition.

(Meeting in Cairo the Moslem congress representing eight countries of the Moslem world adopted sweeping demands for furthering the Arab cause in Palestine.

(The Moslems asked termination of Britain's Palestine mandate, an end of Jewish immigration to the Holy Land and the establishment of parliamentary government in Palestine.)

Royal Scots In Action
Almost immediately after their arrival from India yesterday, the Royal Scots' Greys, one of the last remaining horse regiments in the British army, was called to help in the battle near Mount Carmel.

At Lydda, Palestine's main railway junction, 21 Arab homes were destroyed by British troops because of recent attacks on military police.

A death toll of five was reported after 20 separate incidents of killing, sabotage, arson, robbery and sniping in the last 24 hours.

Two Men Held for "Splicing" Bills
Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—Secret service operators disclosed today how a trail of smoke trapped two alleged passers of cleverly "spliced" $10 notes.

Two men arrested in Greensboro, N. C., on charges of "piecing" two government obligations to make one instrument, were betrayed by the liking of one, a pipe-smoker, for a special blend of tobacco. His purchases were the clues that led to the arrests.

The agents said approximately 200 of the notes have been passed at Maryland race tracks and communities near the tracks. The notes were made by "piecing" genuine bills to make four where only three had been.

O'Connor Promises 'Sound And Sensible Budget'
Leonardtown, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert R. O'Connor, Democratic nominee for governor, pledged himself tonight to present a "sound, sensible balanced budget" to the next legislature if he is elected in November.

Leading his campaign bandwagon into St. Mary's county, with Leonardtown as the only stop, O'Connor devoted most of his prepared address to a discussion of state fiscal problems which, he asserted, have been "made more difficult by the utter failure of the present Republican administration to meet the actual needs it has faced."

Gov. Harry W. Nice's miserably to display the slightest knowledge or understanding of the fiscal affairs of the state, and has drifted serenely along on borrowed money and an unbalanced budget."

houses which have controlled the railroads, and which do not wish to be ousted from such control in the future."

Railroad Counsel Objects
J. Carter Fort, chief railroad counsel, strenuously objected to the contents of Lauck's statement, on the ground he was "making an argument unsupported by any facts."

Lauck, carrying a foot-high pile of documents and papers, said he was merely summarizing in advance data which would prove his contentions.

Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the North Carolina State Supreme Court, chairman of the board, allowed the labor witness to continue his statement, saying it would be accepted for what it's worth.

Earlier, another labor witness had credited two administration measures with causing "an upsurge in wages" in the last two years.

David Kaplan testified that the national labor relations act and the Walsh-Healey acts had boosted wages for millions of workers. He cited these increases as an argument against the 15 per cent wage reduction in railway wages asked by the carriers.

"There has always been an attempt to keep railroad wages on a parity with other industries," Kaplan said.

Counsel for railroads criticized Kaplan's contention. They said railroad workers had been strongly organized for many years and therefore able to obtain relatively high wages.

Husband and Wife to Chair

Joseph Anderson, 37, is pictured with his 33-year-old wife, Lucille, shortly after circuit court at Hot Springs, Ark., sentenced them to be electrocuted for the slaying of Eldon Cooley, grocery chain official, during a robbery. Mrs. Anderson is believed to be first woman given the extreme penalty in Arkansas.

Finance Corporation officials for reputedly lending funds to employers maintaining below-standard labor conditions, and a proposal to study public works planning at long range.

The R. F. C. resolution, supported by the Potters Union, was referred to the federations executive council, after James Duffy, president of the Potters International, had pleaded from the floor that the convention take some action against "the pouring of federal funds into the hands of employers who are paying 40 percent less wages than employers who use organized potters."

Wedding Rings, Postage Stamps and Cash Given To Refugees of Czech
Prague, Oct. 11 (AP)—Wedding rings, postage stamps and cash are being contributed by sympathetic persons in England for the relief of Czechoslovak refugees, Sir Harry Twiford, Lord Mayor of London said today.

Sir Harry arrived yesterday as the head of a British relief mission. He said the relief fund now exceeds $200,000.

Probe Slaying of Man By Brother
Elkton, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—An inquest into the slaying of James Goodyear by his brother, John, 38, will be held tomorrow night at the court house.

Dr. R. C. Dodson, coroner for Cecil county, said tonight he had called as witnesses two other brothers but that their mother, an invalid with whom the slain man allegedly quarreled the day of the shooting, was too infirm to be called.

Dr. Dodson said John Goodyear, now in jail without bail on a charge of murder, will not be summoned but he will probably be represented by counsel.

James, 43, and a World War veteran was shot October 1.

Sheriff Eugene Racine said John confessed firing two charges of shotgun pellets through a window at him because the "didn't like to hear him cuss at the old lady."

The two brothers had been quarreling during the day and returned late for supper when the quarrel allegedly began.

cy with convenient failure of memory."

Last Saturday, at Prince Frederick, he continued, O'Connor had promised "there will be no additional state tobacco tax imposed during my administration." He quoted O'Connor further as saying there would be "no threat of...increase in the real estate tax."

These recent statements by the Democratic candidate compared, the governor said, with a tax program announced by O'Connor April 19, 1937, advocating, among other things, a one-cent cigarette tax, payable by the consumer, a sales tax and a four-cent rise in the tax rate.

Asks for Explanation
"I think it is fair that I ask my opponent, in view of the inconsistency of the record, to explain just why he has abandoned his policy of 1937 and adopted his policy of 1938," Governor Nice continued.

"The tobacco-growing people of the state have been threatened with cigarette taxes and additional real estate taxes," he asserted, "but the threats were of my good friend, the Democratic candidate, and certainly cannot be laid at my door."

Bailey Indicted As U. S. Tax Law Violator
Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—The federal grand jury returned an indictment today against Carroll Bailey of Washington, D. C., charging him with evasion of income tax payments for the past four years totalling about $12,000.

U. S. District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn said Bailey is under indictment in the district of Columbia for violation of the lottery laws.

Four British Royal Air Force Fliers Are Killed
London, Oct. 11 (AP)—Four Royal Air Force flying officers were killed today, three when two bombing planes collided in mid-air near Pwllheli, Wales, and the fourth when his plane crashed in the sea off Portsmouth. The force has lost 168 officers and men in 19 accidents this year.

Hungarian Troops Enter Two Towns In Czechoslovak

Take Possession Pending Settlement of Territorial Demands

State of Emergency Declared Along Frontier, News Agency Declares

PRAGUE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Hungarian troops today completed symbolic occupations of two former Czechoslovak border towns—Ipolyva and Torajka Uhlyeh—pending settlement of Hungary's territorial and military demands.

At London a British news agency (Reuters) dispatch from Prague announced Czechoslovak territory by the German army of occupation were reported from parts of the new frontier.

Near Pilsen it was asserted Germans crossed the line at points despite protests from Czechoslovak observers and penetrated miles in one place.

A state of emergency was declared along the Hungarian frontier in which a number of incidents were reported, the agency added.

Attack Railway Station
Near Berchevo 40 Hungarians attacked a railway station killing train guard and wounding a passenger, it was reported. Two of the band were captured.

The Prague government, while, wrestled with problems arising from German occupation of detenant, particularly the presence in Czechoslovakia of 10,000 refugees from Sudetenland.

The Bohemian provincial government appointed a committee of former residents of Sudetenland to investigate registration lists and determine which refugees could be back home without personal danger.

More than 4,000 residents of Budapest, sang and danced fiery Hungarian music as the Hungarian troops took over today.

Hungarian troops had been arrayed at the border for forcible occupation, if necessary. About 18,000 Hungarians dwell in an area more than 6,000 square miles mandated by Budapest.

Consider Demands Excessive
Prague authorities have indicated they consider the demand excessive but the matter had been placed in the hands of a delegation headed by the prime minister of newly arrived Slovakia, Dr. Joseph Tiso.

The Slovak part of Czechoslovakia was principally involved in Hungarian demands.

A possibility was that the committee might arrange an exchange of Germans now inside Czechoslovakia for Czechs who remained in Sudetenland after German occupation.

Twelve Members Of Three Brothers' Families Perished
terday, were brought today to Francis by Ontario provincial police.

All the victims belong to families of Noah and Bill Labadie, brothers who had settled in a sparsely populated area "thru which fires raged yesterday, destroying thousands of acres of timber on a front of 50 miles."

Constantine David Hamilton, a how searchers had found the charred bodies. The two mothers died with their bodies streched across their smallest children in vain attempt to save them.

"Many homes of families of soldiers were burned, but we do not know whether there were other victims and probably won't have definite information until our men return," said Hamilton. Police were searching the countryside for possible victims.

Hamilton said the fires had been eating slowly through the timber country 50 miles northwest of here for two weeks. Yesterday winds drove them toward this town on the Minnesota border, and one time they were within a mile of Port Frances.

Fire Fighters Battle Doggedly Against Blazes
Minneapolis, Oct. 11 (AP)—Fire fighters, hoping for rain to stem them, battled doggedly today against widespread blazes in northern Minnesota. Two persons were dead as the fate of four other persons was unknown.

The fires, burning in peat bog, brush lands and timber along the Canadian boundary from Warroad to International Falls, and southward in the iron ore region around Hibbing and Virginia, destroyed farm homes and forced settlers to flee.

An unidentified man collapsed while fighting a fire near International Falls, and died in a hospital.

A CCC enrollee, Orville F. Williams, 18, of Little Falls, was fatally injured when a CCC fire truck and a forestry truck collided in dense smoke. Five other CCC boys were hurled to the ground, badly hurt.

Acting on orders of Gov. Elton A. Benson who termed the situation "alarming" and asked all state agencies to prepare for an emergency, Adjutant General E. A. Walsh assigned a national guard company from Duluth to the fire area.

Government Lumber Plant to Give Keen Competition

Oct. 11.—Symbolical of the government in its insatiable thirst for private industry, stands in the valley of the river, not far from this city, a structure of steel and concrete, costing the taxpayers half a million dollars. It is completed, this monument to the government's desire to compete with the private lumber manufacturing which will enter into keen competition with all the other plants in the state, particularly with those of the congressional district.

It can operate at a loss—taxpayers will, of course, be made good any losses—it is able to continue operation on its individually owned companies have been driven out of the valley for they have no subsidies, it being built, when neighbors owned by local citizens were shut down because they were not profitable. The general public is for it, but who asked for it? The public, who has to foot the bill. The taxpayers were not consulted.

The men working in lumbering and manufacturing. The workers were not either; and when they prolonged and ardently against it, they were ignored.

The men who own and operate the plants. They were not, and like their employees, found that their protests fell on deaf ears.

SOME PECULIARITIES
Considering the fact that it seems the plant, like Topsy "just grew," there are some peculiarities in the announcement above to which one might profitably be directed.

news of the proposition came to the representative in Congress the second district. In making what was about to happen is reported as stating that plant would be in operation by 1938. By July, the number at would be ninety-three, and months later (that would be the number employed be 150.

peculiarities to which attention is invited are (first) that even the optimistic and glowing announcement of the Elkins Congress today it is said that no sponsor the plant can be seen—not at on the political horizon. And (second) that the show was over and curtain down before the public even informed there had been a case of considering visibility of locking the stable after the horse had gone to its pastures.

PROSPECTS FOUR IN
December 29, twenty-two representatives of the lumber interests state met in Elkins, expressed their disapproval of the project unanimous vote and called a meeting for January 10, 1938, to were invited all persons interested in the matter.

second meeting was held and well attended. Mr. Randolph it to order and made the "address" in the course of he said, in part: "There were many questions in the minds of those who were present (at the meeting) as to the possibility of establishing a plant to bring to them.

Desert Minnows
Have What It Takes

LA JOLLA, Calif., (AP)—Experimenters at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography have established the unusual hardiness of "desert minnows," small fish that are found in various desert lakes.

These fish can survive the highly alkaline waters of California's Salton Sea, fresh water and ordinary salt water of the ocean. They also live through temperature changes ranging from near freezing to that of hot springs.

Desert Minnows
Have What It Takes

LA JOLLA, Calif., (AP)—Experimenters at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography have established the unusual hardiness of "desert minnows," small fish that are found in various desert lakes.

These fish can survive the highly alkaline waters of California's Salton Sea, fresh water and ordinary salt water of the ocean. They also live through temperature changes ranging from near freezing to that of hot springs.

Encouraging

IT MUST be encouraging to Republicans of this section to note the enthusiastic crowds who are greeting Governor Nice and other state candidates as they circle around the state on their current campaign trip. Everywhere they are meeting with whole-hearted receptions and the gatherings are marked not only by large numbers but by a spirit of reviving confidence in the general campaign situation. The feeling seems ripe that this will be a notable Republican year.

Sometimes animosities and factionalism are carried over from the primary campaign into the election campaign. There is considerable evidence that this obtains on the Democratic side as a result of the bitter contests that were waged over state offices, notably the governorship. But, happily, the Republican party of Maryland, and this section in particular, appears to be free from anything of the kind.

On the contrary, a spirit of old-fashioned American sportsmanship is notable among all the defeated Republican contestants. They are taking their losses good-naturedly and, sensing the need of a strong united front in the campaign, are bending their efforts toward the success of the state, congressional and county tickets.

An example of this spirit is contained in a letter received by a Cumberland friend from Frank R. Long, Montgomery candidate for the Republican nomination for Sixth district United States representative, which was won by A. Charles Stewart, of Frostburg. "I am doing everything I can for Mr. Stewart," Long writes, "and have some old-line Democrats going down the line for him—whole families. He is darned decent and generous with me, and I am doing all I can for him and for Governor Nice."

That is the proper spirit. Let all Republicans be of the same mind and give the same kind of effort in the campaign for the ticket. That will spell success.

Wise Buying

"BUY THE THINGS you want and can afford to have." That is the thought expressed in a fine editorial printed recently in the Mansfield, Ohio, News-Journal.

"There's too much inactive money," the editorial says. "There has been postponement of buying clothing, furniture, floor covering, draperies, electrical conveniences of various kinds—as well as numberless other large and small items."

"Construction of new homes, or remodeling of old ones, has been put off . . .

"Out-dated automobiles have been continued in use by motorists who can well afford a new car."

"All of these things have contributed to the general slow-down of industry and business—thus encouraging the reign of fear that has engulfed so much of the nation . . .

"Money is of no earthly good—except for use!"

"Earn, spend, save," is a formula under which individual and national progress is assured."

The man who spends less than his means would normally dictate, is as much of a burden on the country as the man who continually spends more than he can afford. This country possesses an almost limitless market for commodities of all kinds. We need more homes, more cars, more roads, more farm and factory machinery, more clothing, more labor-saving devices in home and industry. It is purchases of things such as these that make new jobs, new purchasing power, higher national income, and greater opportunity for both capital and labor.

Spend wisely and frugally. Keep your budget balanced. Don't get yourself in the hole. But always remember that sound spending is vital to the maintenance of our standard of living, to the advancement of recovery, and to the ultimate attainment of prosperity.

Campaigning, 1938 Style

HERE is something in politics that needs watching. Former Governor James M. Curley, campaigning for governor of Massachusetts, is capitalizing his friendship for President Roosevelt.

Mentioning the allotment of $5,000,000 to aid districts in Massachusetts devastated by the recent tornado, Curley said scornfully: "That's mere chicken feed. If I am elected, I can get $120,000,000 from my friend, President Roosevelt," and he intimated that if he were not elected, no aid would be forthcoming for Massachusetts with a Republican as governor.

Well, maybe he can and maybe he can't. We have heard the same kind of talk in this section for several years. Another pal of the president, who holds a congressional seat, has been talking loud and long about what he could get for his district in the way of public works projects, conservation dams, flood control projects and what not, but nobody can find as yet what he got in this respect. His getting did not depend on being elected, either, as he was already elected and going around arm in arm with the president on various public occasions.

It does seem queer, however, that a politician campaigning for the office of governor in a state whose people have long been accorded high rank for intelligence, culture and patriotism should thus dare to make an open proposal to buy his election with promises of millions of government money.

Pennsylvanians Waking Up

REPUBLICANS are gaining support in Pennsylvania as the campaign does along there, which is encouraging to party members elsewhere considering the lapse from grace the state has undergone during the last few years.

American Legionnaires seem to be concerned over the situation in the state and William F. Smith, of Punxsutawney, former state commander, has come out with an emphatic endorsement of the Republican state ticket.

Smith declared, in a broadcast, that in the last four years in Pennsylvania "there has been a definite policy and program to change our entire economic system. Free speech, a free press, unrestricted personal liberties within reasonable bounds, the right to worship as I please—I hold these to be the foundation stones of America and Americanism," he added. "These are the things that are threatened by office seekers who brand themselves 'liberal.' . . . What a parody to label as 'liberal' the regimentation of business, the control of crops, the government operation of industry in competition with that of individualism that made America great."

It is good to hear such outspoken warning against a trend that is causing alarm more and more on the part of citizens. Judging from what is being said not only by Smith but others, Pennsylvanians are taking cognizance of it and will most likely be back in the Republican column this fall, where it belongs.

Eight-Man Court

FOR THE FIRST TIME in some years, the United States supreme court seems destined to go through a large part of its session as an eight-man court. True, there was a period not long ago when Justice Stone was forced by illness to absent himself from court for many weeks. But then the supreme court was a nine-man court with one absentee. Now it is a court with only eight members.

There have been intimations from Washington that it will remain an eight-man court until Congress resumes January 3. Mr. Roosevelt could make a recess appointment; but, even if he did so, precedent would be against the justice's assumption of his place on the bench in advance of confirmation by the Senate.

If Mr. Roosevelt's appointment, furthermore, were of a controversial nature comparable to that of Justice Black, there might be embarrassing complications. So the president will be following a discreet course if he "holds everything," in respect to the court appointment, until Congress meets.

A Good Plank

ATTENTION is given in the Republican state platform to the use of voting machines and permanent registration. The plank on the subject is published elsewhere on this page.

As stated therein, the first use of the voting machines in Baltimore at the primary election, proved their utility, despite the natural initial handicap of unfamiliarity with a new device. Extension of their use throughout the state, as advocated by the plank, is something commanding the approval of voting citizens and certainly by candidates, in view of the trouble, cost and worry occasioned in the counties at the primary election.

A plan of permanent registration is also desirable in place of the system which provides for a new registration every decade or so, which system allows many names to be carried on the books that should not be there, and thus gives opportunity for fraud by voting floaters in the names of deceased persons and those removed from precincts.

That Funny Money

IT IS NOT without significance that the California Bankers' Association holds that the "funny money" with which it is proposed to finance that pension plan which has become a political issue in the Pacific Coast state is altogether too funny to have any of the characteristics of money.

The association has formally declared that "the pieces of paper to be issued under this scheme are not in fact warrants as the term is generally understood and have none of the characteristics which warrants must have. They are simply pieces of paper giving the persons who hold them the privilege of paying a two-cent tax every week."

Of course, holding to that interpretation, the California banks announce that they will find it impossible to accept these pieces of paper as in any sense representing money. And that being the case, it might easily follow that business men will also find it impossible to accept them in trade. In which event the joke would seem to be complete.

Life Does Not Go

By MARSHALL MASLIN

What happens to the things that we lose? What happens to pins? What happens to nail files? What happens to safety pins? What happens to small change that falls through holes in our pockets?

What happens to life? Where does it go? Somebody picks up the pins, the nickels and the dimes and the quarters that we let drop—does anybody ever pick up the life we let slip from our grasp?

Where's that laughing child we used to be? Where's that whimpering sorrowful youngster? Where's the boy who had such splendid dreams? Where's the girl who had such a lovely secret? Where's the grief and the humiliation that brought that youth down to commonplace living? Did anything keep that lovely secret fresh in that maiden's heart and make it to shine forth, still, from her older eyes? What happened, anyway?

Where is that burden we thought too heavy to be borne? Where is that joy we felt one summer morning when all the world was gloriously fair? Did it fade at sunset? Is it lingering somewhere, still? Where do the leaves go—those green leaves that are as tiny as a mouse's ear and then as large as your hand and then all scarlet and gold and then drifting downward to autumnal earth? . . . Answer that . . . Sometimes they burn and their smoke makes a soft blue haze against the sky. But mostly they make a rich and fertile mulch beneath our feet and turn to good brown earth at last and are food for all the green things of the land.

That's what happens to leaves, and that is what happens to life. It turns to mulch and keeps other life going. The hopes, the fears, the young dreams, the unbearable humiliations, the broken ambitions, the fleeting pleasures—all that has ever been a part of ourselves remains a part of us still.

Life seems to go from us, but it does not truly go. It stays with us, shapes us, feeds us, makes us what we are. We sigh for the past, we envy what we used to be, we wish most wistfully that what has happened could return. But we are very foolish indeed to think we have left the past behind—because life has not left us. All the past is mulched around our hearts and life can be all the richer for every pain and every joy we have ever known.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

Judge Landis has not quite made clear his reasons for barring Rogers Hornsby from the press coop at the world series, but whatever they were they were insufficient. He should have no more authority to bar anyone from the ball yard press coops than a President of the United States has to rule a man out of the press gallery of Congress.

Hornsby is a noted veteran of the baseball industry, and if there are any bugs on his record Landis should have the courage to give him a trial and either rule him off openly or clear him while he was still active in the business. This may seem a small issue, but the actions of the Judge and—a few years ago—of Jim Farley in the prizefight business in New York have tended to weaken public resistance to the assumption of dictatorial powers by men in public office. True, Landis is an employee of the baseball industry, but that does not entirely relieve him of public responsibility.

He came to his job at a time when it was openly known that some ball players had been "whispered out" of the game on the suspicion of collusion with crooked gamblers and, with his own record of fearlessness on the bench, was expected to guarantee the public protection from conspiracy and the players' protection from unjust punishment for mere secret accusation. Hornsby's case indicates that the baseball magnates are up to their old methods again, for there obviously is some conspiracy against him, and yet he never has had an opportunity to confront any charges.

Farley, in his time as chairman of the prizefight commission, developed an appetite for arbitrary power by watching the dictatorial actions of old William Muldoon, his colleague on the board, who became so arrogant that any offense, however unintentional, to his swollen dignity was punishable by the authority of New York State. It was an offense even to smoke a cigarette in his presence because he hated cigarettes and those who smoked them. He was a man to be flattered and placated at any sacrifice, and Mr. Farley sat by and upheld him in a rule which clearly imposed on the legal rights of petitioners before the commission.

The baseball writers themselves are in part to blame for the Judge's extension of his authority to the press coop. For years they permitted the reservation to be made a hangout for dozens of men having no connection with the newspaper business, and there came a time when the rows were so cluttered with guests and ball players attended by their ghosts that an ordinary working stiff with a story to write had to do his stuff on an eight-inch section of pine plank with sledgehammers sprawled all over him from both sides and behind.

The late Don Skane called the turn some years ago when, on entering the stand for a world series at the Yankee Stadium, he surveyed the piled up rows of old ball players, actors and all, each with a spook to forge his copy for him, and exclaimed:—"It looks like a haunted house."

This old fraud has just about expired now and sport sections which once were largely given over to pathetic fakes attributed to ball players and even to their wives and children are now filled by the work of professional newspaper men. In Washington the accredited journalists guard their privileges, and an effort is made to keep out lobbyists and others having no rightful place in the press gallery lest there come a scandal—something which would smear the good name of the corps.

The baseball writers have been less careful, and although a gambler or fixer might find no advantage in the press scoop so far removed from intimacy with the game it would be wise, nevertheless, to sweep out and restrict admission to those who can prove an assignment to cover the games.

As for the old ball players, the industry itself should make provisions to accommodate them in a veterans' section in the stands.

It does seem cheap and unappreciative of the magnates not to welcome at least those who have played in past world series and certain others of great distinction instead of shoving them off into the press section, where, to accommodate them, the writers have to falsify their legitimate ticket requirements.

Landis, however, extends his power to the press coop and the air in baseball and gives a challenging example of the manner in which a little authority may be enlarged.

IN ANY EVENT IT'S BEST TO GO PREPARED

Failure of Revised Farm Bill Prompts Movement To Revive Processing Tax

BY MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Oct. 11—What is to be said about the present state of AAA and the Department of Agriculture and Secretary Henry Wallace? Well, let us go back five and one-half years.

The AAA statute was sent to Congress on March 16, 1933. Accompanying it President Roosevelt sent a message. He said:

"I tell you frankly that it is a new and untried path . . . If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

The bill was passed and put in effect. It operated for some two years and eight months, practically three full crop years. Then, in January 1936, the supreme court held part of it unconstitutional, the processing tax part.

Soil Law Distorted

Hastily the administration dug up an already existing and not very important law dealing with conservation of soil. This they adapted, expanding it much and distorting it a good deal, so as to make it a second AAA and give them most of the powers they had had under the original measure. With the soil conservation measure they went on for two more years.

Then they wrote a new AAA. They wrote it much as they wanted it, for with the changes that had taken place in the Supreme Court they felt they could go as far as they liked.

The latest AAA was enacted last February, in time for the present crop year. Has it, or either of the other versions of AAA, or the whole course of experiments about farming, "produced the hoped-for results"? The principal hoped-for result was higher prices for crops. And the answer is in today's quotations. Prices are not as low as they were in March 1933, but they have been moving toward that level in a way that causes Mr. Wallace and Mr. Roosevelt to understand clearly that their farm program is a failure. They do not in words take the step that Mr. Roosevelt said he would, "I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you." But Mr. Wallace, by his actions, acknowledges it plainly. So far as that goes, acknowledgment by Mr. Wallace or Mr. Roosevelt would be a superfluous ceremony. Farmers know it without being told. The prices of cotton, wheat and other crops cry it out for all to hear.

Means More Control

So what? Mr. Wallace has taken two steps, neither very conclusive. He has reorganized the department of Agriculture. Whatever the reorganization means in the way of a new program presumably will appear later. About the reorganization, two surmises may safely be made. It is a safe bet that the reorganization does not mean less control over farmers; it means more. And it is a safe bet the reorganization does not mean fewer employees—the tens of thousands of persons who draw pay from the Department will not be diminished. However the farmers fare, the bureaucrats will continue to do well.

Mr. Wallace has taken one other step. He says he is going to ask Congress to enact a processing tax.

What is a processing tax? We had it before. It was on cotton, wheat, rice, tobacco, pork, and for a time on some other crops. The processing tax on pork was two and one-fourth cents a pound. That is an extremely heavy tax, for the price of hogs is commonly something like ten cents a pound. I cannot think of any other commodity, excepting tobacco and liquor, on which there is a tax that high.

From Packers and Butchers

The tax on pork was collected from the packers and butchers—including the many farmers who in the fall kill three or four hogs and sell the meat in a nearby village. Many a farmer found himself a quarry pursued by government agents demanding that he keep accounts and that he pay a tax of $20 or $25 on the sale of three or four hogs, together with a fine because he hadn't known anything about the tax and hadn't paid it on time.

While the processing tax was collected from packers, butchers and farmers, it was, of course, paid by the consumer. It appeared in the retail price. The consumer paid a higher price for his hams and pork-chops. Then, having made him pay an extra price, what did AAA do with the money? They took it and paid it to farmers. They did not give it to farmers, they paid it to them, in exchange for a contract. The farmer had to promise to raise fewer hogs. From the point of view of the consumer he was paying a tax that made the price higher, and the proceeds of this tax were used to create scarcity and thus make the price still higher.

Is Tax on Food

The processing tax is a tax on food—in the case of cotton, a tax on clothing. As such it runs counter to about the oldest principle the Democratic party has had since it began, the principle of resistance to taxes on food, clothing and shelter. A Democratic Congress was willing in 1933 to enact a processing tax as an incident of an emergency. But when, five years later, they now discover the emergency is still here; and when they discover further that while the original AAA was put forward as a cure for emergency, it was really intended as a permanent program—in this situation it is difficult to imagine a Democratic Congress exacting a processing tax again.—Copyright, 1938.

The Plank Thereon Adopted At the Republican State Convention

We regard as noteworthy the legalization and adoption, by Baltimore City, of voting machines and of permanent registration, pledged by us in 1934.

The first use of these amazing devices in the recent primary election, although attended by some confusion, due to unfamiliarity with the machines coupled with the complicated provisions of the present primary law, demonstrated beyond doubt their superiority to the old paper ballot system.

These reforms were urged for years, in the interest of economy in elections, free from fraud, but notwithstanding majorities of the Democratic party in the legislature, no sincere effort was ever made to bring about the desired changes.

We believe the fair-minded people of Maryland appreciate the efforts of the Republican party in these matters, and we advocate and pledge ourselves to the passage of legislation to extend the use of voting machines in such counties as desire them. Their general use throughout the state will forever abolish the confusion and delay exhibited by the recent Democratic primary election, and render recounts simple, swift and inexpensive.

Mr. Morgenthau Overruled

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post.

It is gratifying to know that the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee, controlled by the Democrats, does not agree with Secretary Morgenthau of the Treasury that no harm was done when the deputy collector of internal revenue in Maryland advised his staff that he favored the nomination of Rep. Lewis over Senator Tydings.

The committee, in a formal announcement, was a violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the law; that it was a breach of the Treasury Department by its chairman, Senator Sheppard of Texas, declares that the deputy collector's action partment's own regulations; that it was a violation of sound administrative principles; that no excuse is to be found for it, and that the action of the collector is severely condemned."

The committee adds that it will make a report to the Senate "with recommendations as it may deem proper to make."

We trust that after the election is over the committee will not forget this case, but will make the promised report to the Senate for its mature consideration.

Discredited Prophets

From the Clarksburg, W. Va., Exponent-Telegram.

News comes from Britain that a village's hunt for "the biggest liar" has got out of bounds and become an affair the whole nation is participating in. "The biggest liar" is now being sought all over the empire, just as a matter of recreation. Kibitzing is a distressing habit, but as long as the game's growing by leaps and bounds already it might not offend if another nation sat in just this once, just for one hand. Here, therefore, is a tentative list of candidates, submitted without expectation of reward:

The man who said women would never return to the pinched-in waist. The man who said modern warfare was a matter of one quick, decisive blow. The man who said hurricanes off the Atlantic coast always turned east. The man who said Hitler was just a big bag of bluff and the democracies couldn't be bluffed. The man who said the era of torchlight politics was past. The man who said poverty and plenty depended on the current frame of mind.

The Human Side Of The New Era

By EDWIN C. HILL

The late Jacques Futrell, writer of fiction, was perhaps years ahead of his time. He created the master psychology came to rule the world by his knowledge of exact index to prescribe thought and That was about 25 years ago. His story was "The Thinking Man." An old professor who had all the springs of human action at his finger tips. The big war was offing and this random bit of fiction foreshadowed not only pressure war propaganda, and contenders, but the new standing and use of psychology and incitements in the war years.

Just now a group of Washington psychologists are reviewing the past and taking account of psychology today, and what it has done about it. Many of the drawn from the academic helped to get America into war, and composing our political corps, helped fan us into sustained fighting pitch as were in. They were sincere, scientific men. They didn't join in this one and win it.

Master psychologists were mighty bludgeon. But here, interesting turn of affairs. The now gathering at Washington employing their science of what it is, not to get us into but to keep us out of it. The view Bertrand Russell's "Men Fight" and seek an end to this eternally insistent of They don't agree. Some of them think that the human side is just naturally pugnacious and we will always have war. They think that war psychology ways manufactured and that left alone, without the stimulus of propaganda, never march out to kill each other. The point is that none of the wants war.

It is quite evident that if certain off-stage Powers should decide to shove us into the madness, they would not find great academicians coming to heel as they did in 1916. The rest of us, either. There is a found disillusionment as to glory of war. As to Germany, whence rolls the tidal wave of "Hell" when Der Fuehrer there is no evidence of spontaneity. It is "made in Germany," with phasis on the "made."

A Study in Contrast

From the Annapolis Evening Capital

If anyone has been losing in democracy, he may well wonder what it means to live under a totalitarian regime.

In the dictatorship of Hitler everything is regulated. Does what it is told. People are present in every city and Property rights are protected so long as the owners play by the dominant authorities. No reports are nothing but canned propaganda, and a person dare not press himself on political life, fear of being sent to a concentration camp.

The freedom of a democracy its admitted defects, remains allows for individuality, controlled choice and genuine expression.

Popular government, even with its admitted defects, remains one avenue to creative opportunity and contented living free from mass controls of predatory cracy.

The Hand of Government

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

The vice president of the American Association of Railroads, appearing before the President's finding commission in the railroad wage dispute, blamed governmental activities for a large of the carriers' financial difficulties. Among these activities he listed the following:

Expenditures of public money for hydro development, with a resulting sharp decline in coal tonnage. Invasion of the field of private initiative, which makes of the government a heavy shipper at a preferential rates under the land clause.

Governmental expenditure for improvement of waterways, thus creating water traffic at the expense of the railroads.

This relationship between governmental policy and the transportation problem is one which has received its full share of public attention. It must be borne in mind that the government encourages construction of the Nation's roads and the investment of twenty-five billions of dollars in them. The country was devastated by the railroads. And to certain of economic operation moderate charges, rigid regulation was provided for.

The other side of the picture the government stimulating of the building of roads, the improvement of highways, the building of ports.

Compulsory social security has been listed in Germany for more than years.

Archaeologists have found gloves were used by the early men.

Hair-Trigger Temper Fatal to Happiness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Copyright, 1938

The first essential of a happy marriage is a good disposition. Please don't think I'm advocating a yes-yes, nancy-pamby life partner who hasn't enough personality to blow up into a good storm occasionally. An occasional storm isn't a bad thing for clearing the domestic atmosphere. But these storms should be spaced plenty far apart.

The husband or wife who indulges in such long-spaced disturbances is a different creature from the one whose temper is of the hair-trigger variety, one which explodes at the least touch. There's no peace in a house where the temper of husband and wife is set on a quick fuse.

Detected In Wife

If father has one of those slight-pressure, explosive temperaments, you can detect it in the way the wife has of moving about as if she were dodging shots. She's never at ease for the shot may come from any quarter. The slightest deviation from preference—newspaper in an unaccustomed place, imaginary forays on his possessions (collar buttons, cuff links, tools, books, neckties, etc., all of which he finds later on exactly where he has put them)—and the wife's face reflects an expression of being too long on the firing line.

A husband of this type may be a good provider. He may have intervals of charm, kindness and devotion but you can't count on him. The highly mechanized trigger and secondary trigger, on which his temper is set, goes off as if it were demonstrating its terrible efficiency.

More Of A Menace

The girl with the hair-trigger temper is more of a menace to happy marriage than a husband with the same quick-firing disposition. She'll be around the house for longer periods than the husband, and you'll be submitted for longer intervals to her hair-trigger state of mind. But unless a man is utterly and besottedly in love, he may discover before the fatal words are said whether he is about to domesticate this type of firearm. Let him observe, when he calls, if the family flinches when she asks a question. Do their words tumble over each other in answering her? Has her voice a way of taking on a razor edge if you don't agree with her?

Can she adapt herself to a new environment; or, for instance, if you happen to go with her, on a picnic, does she pick out the most comfortable log and expect the hot dogs to be brought to her without turning a finger—and look angry if they do not come? Does she have a "you'd better!" manner of asking for things? Does she borrow other girls' hats, coats, furs and clipper, as if she were Columbus taking possession in the name of the King and Queen of Spain?

Always Loaded

She may out-Hollywood Hollywood in the matter of beauty, but remember she's loaded and the least touch will send her off. She is seldom witty, clever or amusing, this hair-trigger girl. If she had those desirable qualities, she'd know her line is fatal.

If you're picking out a husband or wife, the first thing to be considered is a good disposition. Pick the good-natured, even-tempered life-partner, and leave the high-strung creature to someone else.

The barometer of the home is a good, sunny temper. If you've been submitted to a hurricane or two, move out of its range as quickly as possible.

CHAPTER 38

JUDY THOUGHT quickly as that strange voice said to her over the speaking tube, "Is this Abbey Boland?"

If she said that it was, she might learn something.

On the other hand she might involve Ronald.

Instinctively she whispered. All whispers sounded alike. "What do you want?"

"You're asking me?" the voice said. "Ready to shell out?"

She gasped, utterly lost as to her answer.

The man continued: "I'm talking plenty if you don't!"

Judy's next words slipped down the speaking tube without conscious volition: "Haven't you done it already?"

The man suddenly grew alarmed. The difference in voice texture penetrated although Judy had clung to her whisper.

"Isn't this Abbey?" the man asked. "Who is it?"

She spoke clearly in her own voice. "I think you have the wrong apartment. There aren't any Abbys or Ronalds around here."

She hung up.

The man might watch the apartment now, or he might think Ronald had rented it for an hour the night before. She could not help that. One thing she knew. There was a man who had something to say. Why? What was his secret? How was Abbey involved?

She went to the window and peered through the draperies. The man was coming down the steps. She caught sight of a bright green fedora and a large plaid checked coat. He glanced up once or twice. She could not distinguish his features at that distance in the night. She tried to memorize the quick way the man walked, his head a trifle preceding his body. He was short and slight.

When she came down to go to the theater, there was no one in sight but the limousine of people who waited for her.

Before leaving she tried to call Ronald. He was not at home, and the office telephone echoed in his empty study. Between acts at the play, she tried again.

It was a gala night. White ermines, minks and jewels were abundant in the audience. One actress wore a costume that Judy had helped Cordeil design. None of this interested her tonight.

During intermissions she searched the people in the lobby. She did not see Ronald's red head. She wondered if Abbey had come. It would be like her to insist on attending this premiere.

Just as the audience was filing back before the third act curtain rose, Judy spied Abbey. She was with a young man, a stranger. She was laughing lightly.

So she had come. She could play white Ronald, whom she professed to love, was working alone somewhere, trying to save his name. Such a violent distant shock Judy that she felt ill. Her hands were cold and her face was hot as the play went on. The actors said lines she did not hear. The people applauded scenes she did not see. She declined to go on to a night club with the party, and finally induced them to let her go home alone in a taxicab instead of giving their chauffeur the trouble of taking her downtown.

She didn't go home. She gave the driver Ronald's address. He would have to come in sometime. She would wait.

He was not in so she drew her mink coat—she had been able to remove it from storage a month ago—around her shoulders and sat on the lower step of the hall in the dim light of the one feeble lamp. She was almost asleep when she heard a key in the latch.

Her heart beat rapidly and she looked up eagerly. She had no thought that Ronald might find her presence unusual or amusing. He might be in danger. She had news that he should have.

It wasn't Ronald who came in.

It was an elderly man who asked her if she had been locked out and suggested that he call the janitor for her. She smiled as she shook her head.

"I'm waiting for a friend."

The man went upstairs in a small lift under the stairway and she was alone again. The clock on a tower somewhere chimed 12 times.

On the last stroke Ronald came. His face was so drawn, his eyes so worried, his chin so stern, she drew in her breath. Then he saw her and his eyes widened.

"Judy, has anything happened? Are you in trouble?"

Now that he was here, now that he was all right and she could touch him, her worries seemed foolish.

She wanted to see his apartment, had wanted to for a long time. But she knew he could not ask her up now. It would have been all right. Others did it. But Ronald was in the limelight. The spotlight of scandal was probing into his conduct.

Besides there was Abbey. "Let's go across the street and have some coffee," he said.

When they were seated: "Something happened, Judy. Want to tell me about it now?"

She related the evening's experience with the man in the green hat. Ronald's face was amazed.

"Are you sure you had the right man?" he asked. "When you looked down, Judy, wasn't there anyone else in sight? Think!"

She shook her head. "No one. I ran to the window right away and looked all around. The man couldn't have gone down the steps. I'm sure of it."

And he seemed to know Abbey?

She nodded. Ronald shook his head. "Judy, I'm as mystified as you are."

"Then it isn't the party you had arranged to meet."

"No, he's tall and dresses conservatively."

Judy spoke impulsively, placing

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9876

The ideal dress to wear without a coat on Autumn's warmer days... and under your Winter coat later. Besides, it's festive enough for almost any event that turns up—and, being a Marian Martin design, it's very simple to sew. Take note of the two smart sleeve lengths—and the two pretty necklines, high or low (with deep scallop at back). Consider too the long panel, which is so flattering, and may contrast if you wish. Equally becoming are the bodice shirrings, and the blousing that makes the skirt seem slimmer. Use wools or silks, with buttons and a sash.

Pattern 9876 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2½ yards 39 inch fabric and ¼ yard contrast.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Send TODAY for the Fall-Winter MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK! Its fascinating pages show you the way to smartness and thrift, with dozens of easy patterns that answer all your wardrobe needs. Tailored styles for everyday! "Glamour" fashions for parties! Gay togs for school, college and the holidays! Slimming chic for the matron! At-home frocks, winter sportswear, lingerie—and plenty of gift suggestions reminding you that the holiday season is not far off! Order your copy at once. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. ### THIEVES STEAL PHONEY NUGGETS

Waukegan, Ill. (AP)—Someone took H. C. Ryan literally when he put several money bags and a large pair of "gold nuggets" on display to advertise a motion picture coming to his theater.

Thieves broke into the theater and stole the display. The money bags were filled with sand and the nuggets were gilded stones.

Wins $100 From Officer Following Her Arrest

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Hardy, arrested last March 17 on complaint of her husband, won a verdict of $100 damages today against Police Lieut. George Earhardt. She was released after a mental examination.

Porker Players Nabbed After False Alarm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It was a false fire alarm that sent a police patrol car to a Market street address—but not entirely false.

Walking over roof-tops in search of the fire, officers looked through a skylight and saw a poker game in progress. Ten men were arrested for gambling.

Jews Go To Antipodes

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—A party of 49 Jewish refugees from Germany and Austria has arrived here, and inquiries from Europe indicate that many others plan to seek a home in this country and Australia. Many of the prospective settlers stated they had adequate financial means as well as definite vocations.

Eye For Eye Is "Golden" Rule Of Baseball

When Owner Gets Winner He Recalls His Days In Dump

Ruppert's Refusal to Sell Stars Now Harks Back To Days of Comiskey

BOSTON BEES SEEN COMING INTO POWER

Old Bob Quinn May Yet Have His Laugh--Why Managers Can't Quit

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Putting two and two together—and getting four—on the day the Yankees and Cubs were supposed to be traveling back to Chicago for the 6th and 7th games of the world series:

Gratitude plays an important part in baseball. Years ago, the Chicago White Sox ruled the Yankees were nothing. Baseball's "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey, refused to help Colonel Jacob Ruppert, then interested in building the Yankees from a hopeless, laughing-gas ball club to a money maker and winner. Most of the others, riding high, also turned the colonel down and, in his rage, he vowed he'd make them all feel sorry.

How the colonel has succeeded is baseball history. Since he and the late Colonel T. L. Huston purchased the Yankees for $400,000 in 1915 the club has won 10 American league flags and seven world titles beginning with 1921 when Babe Ruth, one of the heroes he was able to pry away from a rival club, started paying off dividends.

There are rumors now that the colonel will break up his team to give it others a chance. He's a sick man these days but not that sick. At all such reports, the colonel stiffens and barks: "Why should I? What did they ever do for me when I was trying to build a ball club?"

Boston Bees May Come Up
The next man who may come up with the final ball club is old Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees, baseball's "rag man." Quinn never got much help either.

Gabby Hartnett's ultimatum that he'll break up the Cubs was expected. The club for years has been unsettled principally because players thought they should be manager. One of them is Billy Herman. Billy unquestionably is a fine ball player, but his play this season put him as far from the manager's chair as Rogers Hornsby. The status of Tony Lazzeri should be interesting. The last guess is Tony will stay but chances are he's wished many times he hadn't cut Oscar Vitt off short when Oscar offered him the Cleveland coaching job last winter. Incidentally, Hornsby's $10,000 a year for managing Baltimore is not a minor league high. Chuck Dressen, ex-Cincinnati, received 10 grand for managing Nashville last year.

Baseball in the Blood
Reports that ex-major league managers like Mickey Cochrane are glad to get out of baseball are hogwash. Baseball is like the newspaper business. It gets into your soul. Cochrane would like to get back. During the series, I asked Frank Frisch why he didn't quit working now and enjoy his money.

"Sure, I'm well fixed," said Frisch, "but I want to get back into baseball. I don't mind admitting I get a heartache every day that passes without myself in the game." Frisch still has a chance at the Brooklyn job. He'd be a natural. A mix-up cost him his job with the St. Loey Cardinals. Branch Rickey wanted to re-hire him but first wanted to straighten Frank out on a couple of matters pertaining to front office control. Before Rickey could get to it—or make himself understood—owner Sam Breadon fired him.

Who Was Year's Best Pilot?
Who did the best job of managing this year? Everybody seems to be voting for Boston's Casey Stengel and Cincinnati's Bill McKechnie but the accolade should go to Joe McCarthy, who whipped a bunch of stars together again and made them win despite themselves. Bill Terry also did a magnificent job with nothing, though his critics still insist Carl Hubbell, not Terry, made the Giants.

Don't get too excited over talk of big player deals this winter. Right now the boys would trade under-shirts and lawn mowers but when the big trading mart opens at Mike O'Leary's emporium at New Orleans in December, the David Harums will call each other robbers and bring back the same old faces except for a trade or two. They all want something for nothing and they wind up with—you guessed it—nothing.

Luther-Joy Survive In Tri-State Pro Golf

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Ted Luther of Churchill Valley and Tony Joy of Phillipsburg, survived the quarter and semi-final rounds of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association tournament today and will clash over 36 holes tomorrow at Oakmont for the title.

Joy upset Monty Onoretta, of Schenley Park, 3 and 2 in the morning's 18-hole round and easily disposed of Dick Shoemaker of Titusville in the afternoon 4 and 3. The long beat Ray Mangrum, of long-hitting, non-attached pro of the Oakmont Club 3 and 2, then triumphed 2 and 1 over Walter Johnstone, of Slippery Rock.

Happy Yanks After Winning Baseball Blue Ribbon

Defeating the Chicago Cubs in four straight games, the New York Yankees become the first club in major league history to win three straight world series. A few of the happy Yanks are pictured with the high

Big Grid Teams Face First Major Tests

Navy, Fordham, Holy Cross, and Carnegie Tech and Others Play

New York, Oct. 11.—Aided by such contributing factors as California's return to competition in its own class, the first major games of the season for Navy, Fordham, Holy Cross and Carnegie Tech, and a line-up of formidable opposition for such gridiron powers as Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame and Alabama, this Saturday's mid-October football program stacks up as one of the best of the season.

California, which played a double-header last week end, will come back to the defense of its Pacific Coast conference championship against U. C. L. A. The Bruins already have humbled Washington, one of the coast's advance favorites, and really will be gunning for their big brothers from up north.

Navy, making its big-time bow at New Haven, meets a Yale team that has lost both its stars yet still has the equipment to give anybody a fight.

Fordham Meets Purdue
Fordham, in its clash with Purdue, and Carnegie Tech and Holy Cross, in their meeting at Pittsburgh, should provide two of the east's better dog fights. The Rams, unbeaten last year, have sent their backs through practice sprints against Upsala and Waynesburg, but Coach Jim Crowley regards Purdue as the "make-or-break" test for a big but raw Fordham line.

Similarly, Holy Cross, which has been exercising its numerous ball carriers in short shifts, may have to work the regulars on a full-time basis to get by Bill Kern's tough Tartans.

Minnesota, Notre Dame and Alabama, held surprisingly well by Purdue, Georgia Tech and North Carolina State in their last starts, are heading for more trouble; the Gophers against a Michigan club that has been coming faster every Saturday and certainly will be pointed for this objective. Notre Dame against Illinois, and Bama against Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers.

Pitt Falls Wisconsin
Pitt's task of the week is to overcome Wisconsin, which was good enough to beat Iowa by three touchdowns and still give its regulars a chance to rest up for this assignment.

All four of the Ivy League standouts have their work cut out for them—Pennsylvania against a Princeton squad which promises to get stronger from week to week; Columbia against Colgate, which has in Hal Lube a passer to match Sid Luckman; Cornell against well-loaded Syracuse, still in the untested class; and Dartmouth against Brown, which is climbing back to its old-time prominence.

Other outstanding engagements will find Ohio State, still hoping for Big Ten eminence despite its dumping by Southern California, meeting Northwestern; Vanderbilt tackling Mississippi, opening-game conqueror of Louisiana State; Iowa State, surprise victor over Nebraska, seeking to stake further claim to Big Six honors by beating Missouri while Kansas plays Oklahoma; Oregon, Coast Conference leader, playing Stanford; Army playing Harvard, and Texas A. and M. battling Texas Christian in a clash of two Southwest Conference threats.

Pirates Send Back Jack
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—The worn and weary office staff of the Pittsburgh baseball club began mailing approximately 150,000 checks for about $500,000 today to fans who had sent in money for tickets to world series games here.

The Pirates, if you recall, lost out in the final week of the National league season to the more or less fortunate Chicago Cubs.

Injury Jinx Still With Potomac State Squad

Keyser, W. Va., October 11, 1938 —The Potomac State Catamounts looked better in practice yesterday than they have this week. Every man that made the trip to Charleston was on hand and in condition to practice. A short scrimmage was held and the play was vicious. The men who played at Charleston did not take part in the scrimmage but had plenty of the "so called zip" in signal drills.

The injury jinx still hounds the squad. Bill promising regular end hurt his knee so seriously the night before the squad left for Charleston that he could not make the trip, and is still in the hospital. Joe Hughes is not able to put on a uniform yet. In scrimmage last evening, Hawkins, another end, received a cut on his leg that required six stitches. But in spite of this the spirit of the squad has improved and Coach Lough claims that the team will be a fighting one next Saturday.

Season tickets go on sale today and may be purchased all week. They may be brought on the street, at some of the business places, or at the gate Saturday.

The University of Maryland is sure to send a fine Freshman team here Saturday and the Catamounts are determined to win, so the contest should be a good one to watch.

Summer Ballyhoo Beat Rice to Bowl

'Red' Dawson Now Faces Oklahoma Which Made Him Eat Story

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 11.—One dull day last Summer Coach Red Dawson of Tulane slipped into New York and confided to sports writers that Rice Institute, come the fall, would commit manslaughter on the gridiron and emerge as national champions.

No later than the next edition time Dawson's words were in big, black type and the word was noised around generally that Rice, with its invincible Ernie Lain, was "in." Sports writers and magazine authors didn't leisurely come down to investigate Mr. Dawson's tip—they flew by transport plane.

Interviews over, and Rice safely in the Rose Bowl, the season started. Oklahoma, a team that had whipped Rice in '37, came to town and beat Rice, Lain and Ollie Cordill notwithstanding, 7-6. Consternation, as they say, reigned.

Quiet, youngish Coach Jimmy Kitts, sought out for an explanation, said simply: "Oklahoma had a fine football team—better than Rice today. My team has been pumped up by newspaper and magazine publicity to the point where it was tough getting them fired up for a game. We're back from the Rose Bowl now and will play in the Southwest Conference."

Upsets, said the deflated experts, could catch up with any team in this day and time, and Coach Kitts' words were drowned out in predictions of a Rice comeback against powerful Louisiana State the next Saturday.

Next Saturday came and the '37 Southwest Conference and Cotton Bowl champions bowed to L. S. 3-0, on a field goal in the last 15 seconds of play. Twice Rice had nudged down within a step of the goal line but fumbles halted them.

Next Saturday at New Orleans Mr. Red Dawson, the man innocent by behind the Rice-to-the-Rose-Bowl campaign, meets a man who wishes Mr. Dawson had never gone to New York—Mr. Jimmy Kitts.

Aethelwold Winner Of Laurel Feature

Laurel, Md., Oct. 11.—W. L. Aethelwold, a recent graduate from the maidens ranks, won the Crumpton purse after the favorite, W. M. Jeffords' Jolly Tar, had thrown his rider, wore out three assistant starters and probably himself at the post. E. R. Bradley's Blini trailed this pair by eight lengths in third place.

Jockey Harry Richards, who gave Jolly Tar a great ride only to be beaten in a photo finish, claimed a foul but the stewards let Aethelwold's number stand. Starting from the outside, Richards saved ground and was almost even rounding the last turn. Here Aethelwold bore out and Jolly Tar was carried wide.

The results:
First—Bramton, 5.20, 2.20, 3.00; Evening Light, 2.20, 2.50; Zenn Zenana, 10.00.
Second—Prattler, 4.20, 2.50, 2.40; Promoter, 3.20, 2.70; Vaquero, 2.30.
Third—Last Solace, 6.30, 3.50, 2.60; Balkan War, 3.30, 3.00; Of Course, 5.60.
Daily Double—Bramton and Lady Solace, $22.39 for $2.
Fourth—Grass Cutter, 12.60, 3.30, 2.30; Carvilo, 2.40, 2.10; Time Signal, 2.40.
Fifth—Little Time, 18.10, 1.70, 5.50; Royal Business, 4.70, 3.70; Kai-Min, 4.90.
Sixth—Aethelwold, 8.10, 3.10, 2.90; Jolly Tar, 2.70, 2.40; Blini, 3.00.
Seventh—White Sand, 3.50, 2.40, 2.10; Sir Reg, 3.50, 2.40; Dissembler, 2.10.

Beall Hi Soccer Team Troupes Oakland, 5-0

Frostburg, Oct. 11.—Beall High School today entertained the Oakland High School soccer team at State Teachers College pitch here and the entertainment consisted of handing the Garrett Countians a 5 to 0 defeat. Chaney and Layman booted field goals while Adams came through with a penalty kick.

The lineup:—
Beall: G. Lewis, Ott, RFB, Harvey, Adams, LFB, Cook, Adams, Frantz, RHR, Bittner, Sharps, CHB, Layman, Adams, Wolf, LHB, Puch, Pazabaker, ORE, Burkett, Stewart, IRE, Bittinger, Shaffer, CP, Adams, Frantz, Klay, ILP, Frichard, Glase, OLF, Chaney, Gower, Substitutions—Middleton and Dyer for Beall; Mason, Gilmore and Sanders for Oakland.

Scoring: Goals—Chaney and Layman; Penalty Kick, Adams.

Hurricanes Will Play Morgantown On Sunday

With the Concordia A. C. of Altoona behind them, the victims of a 7-6 defeat last Sunday at Community Park, the Cumberland Hurricanes football team go to Morgantown, W. Va., on next Sunday to meet the Morgantown Bears in a return tilt. The Bears apparently left their claws at home when they came here earlier and lost 33-0. The Canes will play their next home game at Community Park on Sunday, October 23, meeting Windber, Pa., which won over the Concordia eleven by a 12-0 score.

A pass to Elmo Biggs from Lawrence Males for the extra point following a 45-yard heave from Males to Thomas Smith, who ran 15 yards for a touchdown gave the Hurricanes victory on Sunday.

Frostburg Teachers And Celanese to Boot

Frostburg State Teachers' College will host this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to the soccer team of the Celanese Corporation of the Western Maryland Soccer League.

While Coach Carrington of State Teachers has not announced his starting lineup the Celanese Club's roster has been given out to include Wilford Small, Boyd Payton, Francis Tipping, Cecil Warnick, William Orr, Ed Thompson, Dunbar Scollock, Dale Broadwater, Lawrence McKenzie, Frank Duncan, Harry Stafford, James O'Rourke, John Darnley, Tally Hanna and Robert Orr.

Bruce High Soccer Team Tops Allegany

Scores In Each Period to Win By 9-0 Score In Game At Westernport

Bruce High School's soccer team scored in every period to take the measure of Allegany High School at Westernport yesterday, piling up four field goals and a penalty to win by a 9 to 2 score.

Jack Junkin opened the scoring by firing a field goal after receiving a pretty pass from Lambert. Junkin scored about 5 minutes later on a penalty to make the score 3-0. Bruce at the first quarter. As the second quarter opened Richard Dawson, who played a whale of a game, scored on a free kick which slipped through goalie Winters hands, to make the score 5-0 at half. James Roberts scored from scrimmage for Bruce in the 3rd quarter. Edmiston scored Allegany's lone goal in this quarter from a scrimmage in front of the up-rights. In the 4th quarter Bruce was awarded a penalty on a foul by Thompson and Dawson missed it but James Roberts again scored by following up the rebound to conclude the scoring. Dawson and DiUbaldo were outstanding for the winners while Carl Stutcher and Goggins played great games for the losers.

The lineup:
Bruce: G. Reeves, Winters, RFB, Ranz, Goggins, LFB, Twigg, Sowers, RHR, DiUbaldo, Thompson, CHB, Dawson, C. Stutcher, LHB, Sheets, McMillen, ORE, Junkin, Athey, IRE, Lambert, Kirkpatrick, CP, Roberts, Edmiston, ILP, Salesky, P. Stutcher, OLF, Pazabaker, Hockman, Substitutions—Bruce; Laughlin and Gardner.

Score by periods:
Allegany..... 0 0 2 0-2
Bruce..... 3 2 2 2-9

Parade Rest
Previews, Reviews and Your Views of The Parade of Sports.

While trying to get the tootsies back on the sphere of sports which they left when the last of Col. Neise Russler's imported Cumberland Colts had hung up their second-hand New York Yankee uniforms, after we had kept the B. & O. passenger service running both ways about Queen City Station from early Spring to late Fall with incoming and outgoing Yankee prospects, a story that fits this column's situation comes to mind. It's like this:

A rather well-known man in a southern state county of some 35,000 registered voters was running for sheriff. When election day had come and the ballots were being counted his total vote was just about 55. (No recount was necessary). Bright and early the following morning, while the brethren whom the balloting interested were still gathered about the results board before the local newspaper office, the gentleman was noted coming down the street wearing a brace of pistols at his sides, dangling from a belt loaded with cartridges. The crowd about the board gave him wide berth, figuring that the humiliating result had "gone to his head." He scanned the board in silence, and finally one onlooker got up courage enough to approach him with, "Say, what's the idea, you were not elected sheriff?" To which he came back with, "Sure, I know." And when pressed with, "Well, what are you wearing the pistols for?" he chirped, "Listen brother, any guy that's only got 55 friends in a community of over 35,000, needs protection, and that's why I got my guns on."

AND SO, if occasionally or frequently we wander from the sphere of sports, we're merely covering up for self-protection. As we knew it the spotlight was on the aforesaid Neise Russler, "Ike" Law and his brother, Eugene, or "Happy" to you, "Pats" Lookabaugh, "Pop" Sanner, "Funny" Newman, "Denny" Shay, and back to the days of "Doc" Ford, "Babe" Millenson and Jimmy McGuire, who made a habit of chasing us over the grandstand roof blossom into a lasting friendship into to John W. Snyder and the early days of Fay Keiser, when John W. occasionally threw a wild duck party, and the parties never got wilder than the ducks (before they had been dispatched, dressed and devoured).

It's difficult to guess the other fellow's mind, his likes and dislikes, but the thought occurs that while trying to catch up with the younger generation, it might be well to go back over the records and refresh some of those stars of other days with their doings then, and at the same time let their youngsters know that the boys and girls of the twenties were "some shakes" at sports.

Maybe so, and maybe not! BUT you'll have to take it with us for that's all there is, and there isn't anymore until we supply our cranium with the capers of the "comets" in the sphere of sports TODAY.

Wrigley Laughs Off Hartnett's Threat to Tear Cub Team Apart

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—(AP)—In a determined effort to make a real championship team out of the Chicago Cubs, Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the team, today revealed a six point program for the rebuilding of his club.

The program is:
1—The contract to be offered Manager Gabby Hartnett will be for one year only.
2—Veteran players, rather than younger men, will be used as trading material but the "finger" has not been put on any player.
3—A system of cooperative ownership of minor league clubs is planned to fortify the Cubs' weak supply of young talent.

4—Tony Lazzeri, if he wants it, will have a place with the organization in 1939 though not necessarily with the Cubs proper.
5—Dizzy Dean remains a strong hope for 1939 although no special Winter program except rest has been prescribed.

6—Although physical limitations prevent a wholesale shakeup, every possible effort to strengthen the club will be made.

Thumbs Down on Clean Out
Sitting shirt-sleeved at his desk, the young multi-millionaire smiled at the reaction to Hartnett's impetuous statement that "only four of the Cubs were sure of their jobs." Hartnett had named them—Stanley Hack, Clay Bryant, Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean.

"Gabby dropped in today to explain that," Wrigley said. "He was worried over the stress the newspapers put on it. I told him I could understand how everybody might feel that was the thing that might be done."

"A wholesale shakeup is ridiculous, of course. There is no sense in trading players just to be trading or just because they have slipped a trifle from their peak for one season."

"That's why we're going to wait a few weeks before doing anything. I don't think we will have any difficulty getting together on terms for Hartnett. The contract, however, will be only for one year. None of ours are ever for any more."

To Cooperate with Minors
"We've got the best club in the league and we have to do our trading in our league," Wrigley continued. "That means we will have

Redskins' Surge Boosts Averages

Washington Tops In All Angles of Offense--Ahead of 1937 Marks

The phenomenal surge of the Washington Redskins, which gave them the best averages in all of offensive departments of play for the third consecutive week, has been instrumental in elevating National Football League marks in scoring and passing above the record-breaking standards of a year ago.

This was revealed by team statistics for the fifth week of play, announced today, which shows Washington headed for new records in forward passing, scoring and ground gaining. The National League champion has completed 42 out of 78 passes for 53% efficiency, gained an average of 304 yards per game in four games, and tallied 86 points.

With the New York Giants having a 50% average in passing and the Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers close behind with 48% and 47% respectively, the entire league average is 42% or four percent better than in 1937 when a new record was established.

These figures this week reveal that National League scoring is three points a game better than in 1937 when a new mark was also established in this department. Green Bay has scored 85 points, only one less than Washington while Cleveland has 71 and Philadelphia 70. There were only two games in 22 played this season in which one team failed to score as compared with five in 20 games in 1937 at this date.

New York is second in ground gaining with a 241 yard average and Green Bay is third with a 257 yard average, four better than Detroit. The Chicago Bears lead on defense, having held opponents to a mere 114 yards and 6.6 points per game.

Next Sunday's Games
Washington at Detroit.
Philadelphia at New York.
Cleveland at Pittsburgh.
Chicago Bears at Chicago Cardinals.
Brooklyn-Green Bay at Milwaukee.

Soccer Meeting Tonight

Boyd Payton, secretary-treasurer of the Western Maryland Soccer League, announced today that any teams seeking admission into the loop are urged to send representatives to the meeting to be held tonight at Kelley's place, Lonaconing, at 7:30 o'clock. It is the hope of William V. Stinger, of Williamsport, elected president at last week's meeting, and Payton to complete organization of the circuit tomorrow.

Williamsport, Barton and the Celanese were granted franchises at the first session, and since that time it has been reported that the Boosters' Athletic Association of South Cumberland, Westvaco A. A., Klondyke, Frostburg and other groups will be represented at tonight's meeting.

Present plans call for opening games to be played next Sunday, October 16, and the schedule will receive further consideration tonight.

Stars Share Honors In Film Opening Today At the Liberty

Way Musketeers," the Warner picture opening at the Liberty today, is chiefly with the fortunes of a trio of girls by Margaret Lindsay, Jeanne Sandford, and Marie Wilson, who are all actresses in Hollywood.

Also coming in for a goodly young miss is tiny, six-year-old Janet Chapman, who made her "Little Miss Thoroughbred" debut in the picture. This is her second picture, and she is given plentiful opportunity to display the dramatic which gave her ranking as a juvenile star.

Lindsay, who usually portrays dignified types, has a dramatic role as a woman heading toward death to satisfy her search for a chance to have her voice heard on the screen.

Other prominent in the cast of "Numbered Woman" include Sally Blane, Lloyd Hughes, Clay Clement, Mary Lou Lender, John Arledge, and J. Farrell MacDonald.

Karl Brown directed the original story by Jack Neville, and E. B. Derr produced for Monogram.

Gridiron Classic to Be At Strand

Some football sequences will be seen in "Touchdown Army," the gridiron drama, which Paramount will present to local movie fans today and tomorrow at the Strand theatre.

The sequences occur in an Army-Navy game which forms the climax of this story of athletic and romantic rivalry at West Point.

John Howard and Robert Cummings, the two leads of the picture, play West Point's star football combination in a final game which differs from those in nearly all other gridiron pictures in that the hero does not enter the field at the last minute to put the ball across the line.

On the contrary, Cummings, who flies to the stadium during the final quarter, after having been kept out of the game because of a scandal, turns down his big chance to become a football hero in the surprise ending of the season.

Pearl-blonde Mary Carlisle, the third corner of "Touchdown Army's" romantic triangle, is the girl whose last-minute intervention enables Cummings to join his teammates on the field and save the day for West Point.

The Dionne Quintuplets, now five years old, talk, sing and dance in the new Twentieth Century-Fox picture "Five of a Kind" which opens at the Strand this Friday. It is an action melodrama of life in New York.

Supporting the Quints are Claire Trevor, Cesar Romero, Jean Hersholt, Slim Summerville and Henry Wilcoxon.

Double Feature Bill At Garden Theatre

The Garden Theatre is presenting a double feature bill today, starting at noon.

One is "The Counterfeit Lady," with Ralph Bellamy and Joan Perry in the leading roles, in which the "perfect sleuth" furnishes much of the action.

The other is Joe E. Brown in "Wide Open Faces," with Skip Worth, Lyda Roberti and Jane Wyman in support.

"The March of Time" No. 13, is an added feature.

Easy to Have Moll Movie

A haunted house as its background and a trick necklace as the key to the haystack, Columbia's murder-mystery, "Making the Grade," opens today at the Liberty.

Jack Holt is the star, and he has red-blooded action order of the day.

Terms Police Lieutenant Lewis (Holt), who is shifted from city to a suburban post, receives too much publicity in his gang-busting activities.

Others, his pal, an ace ace who has been responsible

Clary Club Floor Show

Miss Ethel Mae Smith, daughter of Mrs. R. Smith, 1018 Virginia avenue, who won the title of Miss Maryland Venus of 1938, last week in Hagerstown, is appearing tonight at Clary Club in an all-star floor show with Bernard McPadden's Miss America. Miss Smith won a year's contract with Merman's attraction of Hollywood, Cal., to judge contests. She also received a large loving cup and a free trip to Hollywood.

Maryland's First String Against W. Md. Uncertain

College Park, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—The uncertain condition of a number of players will prevent Coach Frank Dobson of Maryland from settling on a starting team for the Western Maryland game in the Baltimore Stadium Saturday until after tomorrow's practice.

It is certain that he will not have the services of Nick Budkoff, his best end; Jim Forrester, senior center and Kip Hewitt, chief utility back.

The return of Bob Brown, big tackle, is just a possibility. Other doubtfuls are Charlie Weidinger, Joe Devlin and Joe Murphy, backs; Bob Smith, leading reserve center, and Francis Beamer, end.

There will be no rough work this week, practice being limited to signal drills and non-contact fundamentals.

Navy Seeks Guards for Yale Battle Saturday

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—Guard troubles haunted the Naval coaches today as they drilled their squad on defense plans against Yale, Saturday.

With Ben Trimble, 200 pound right guard, out for the remainder of the season with a fracture of a vertebrae, the Navy is seeking substitutes for him. Trimble suffered his injury in the game with Virginia Saturday.

Red Cross Calls for Clothes Donations

An appeal for used clothing, especially for the use of children, was issued yesterday by Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

There is pressing need for this clothing now that school is under way and many children are handicapped by a lack of needed raiment.

Yield Up to Point As Many Traders Lighten Commitments

FREDERICK GARDNER

Oct. 11 (AP)—Stocks took "reactive" medicine in the morning to a point or so. The market was still held in the grip of business news and traders were not particularly active, but some analysts felt it was due for a greater recovery because of its lengthly upswing. Many traders lightened commitments accordingly. The day holiday tomorrow, the stock exchange will also be a factor.

Investment of new highs for the day in evidence, and low prices were turned over on some. A few utilities, copiers, aircrafts managed to edge out backwardness of steel, rail throughout cast a shadow on speculative optimism.

Associated Press average of 58.8 was off 1 day of a point at 58.8, the day before. Transcripts to 1,534,000 shares with 1,663,900 Monday.

United Aircraft were further signs of huge investment programs. Cero and Phelps Dodge were a major fraction to a new and Consolidated Edison, Power & Light and North finished with minor gains, Sheffield climbed 3 points, a new high for the move.

Standard Oil of New York ground on continued mid-continent crude. S. Steel and Bethlehem, which was it was learned, U. S. had been posted on auto-functions to more than a 100-point irregular curb list were Aircraft, Atlas Plywood, Co. and Lake Shore. Oil dipped more than 3 points. Losers included New, Greole Petroleum, Cities and Roesser & Pendleton.

Mayor's Blast Against C. I. O. Only Beginning

Dr. Koon Announces He Will Release Series
Of Statements

UNION HEADS SILENT IN FACE OF ATTACK

Cumberland Well On Way
To Becoming "Ghost
Town" Is Charge

Cumberland's ranking C. I. O. officials remained silent last night in the face of a bitter public statement by Mayor Thomas W. Koon calling upon business men and workers alike to fight the C. I. O. and save Cumberland from the fate of a ghost city.

At the same time the mayor revealed that the lengthy denunciation of the C. I. O. which he released yesterday morning was but the first in a series of statements on the local labor situation. The next will be issued shortly.

Jones Ignores Mayor
John T. Jones, lieutenant of John L. Lewis and head of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union council, read the mayor's first statement at United Mine Workers headquarters here.

"Anything Dr. Koon says calls for no statement whatsoever from us," he declared. "Any answer would lead to a mere battle of words."

It was indicated that if there were to be any reply, it would not be made through the daily press, but through the C. I. O.'s own organ.

Tin Mill Is Issue

The occasion for the mayor's attack on the C. I. O. yesterday was his expressed conviction that the C. I. O. caused the N. and G. Taylor Tin Mill to close.

The mayor did not stop, however, with a denunciation of the C. I. O. for the loss of this one plant. He went on to ask the aid of all citizens "to eradicate this vicious influence from the city."

Charges News Suppression

He charged that large quantities of Liberty magazine had been bought up here to keep the people from reading an article by a former mayor of Akron which blamed the C. I. O. for turning that rubber city into a so-called "ghost city."

He warned that unless conditions here change "then the day may not be far distant when Cumberland will take its place alongside Akron."

He made this statement, he said, because he felt "that unless the whole body of our citizenry reads the warning signs, that then the industrial life of this community will, within the next two or three years, come upon disaster."

Complete Text

The complete text of the mayor's statement follows:

"As has been noted by the daily press of this city, and by inquiries made by me, to sources which I consider reliable, it is with great regret that I note that the Republic Steel Corporation is dismantling its Cumberland plant. It is now probable that this industry, for any substantial purpose, has been lost to Cumberland."

"In view of the fact that this is one of the two oldest industries in Cumberland, what I believe to be sound public policy impels me to take cognizance of the closing of this plant, and the fact that it has been closed for a year, and to review its history. For many, many years, the N. and G. Taylor Tin Plate Mill employed hundreds of men in this community, and the earnings of the men who worked there were higher than in any other industry around Cumberland."

A. F. of L. Satisfactory

"A number of years ago, a large part, if not all of the employees of the plant were organized into a branch of the American Federation of Labor, and, while some disputes arose between the employees and the management, all of these were overcome to the satisfaction of both groups, and the plant continued to operate successfully. About ten years ago, the plant ran into difficulties because of improvements and changes of process which had been made in other tin mills. During the last ten years, the plant has been reopened three times; twice, as the result of special efforts made by the Chamber of Commerce, and, in 1935, as the result of special efforts made by both the Chamber of Commerce and a group of its employees. On that particular occasion, the plant employees sent a special committee before the City Council, asking for tax exemptions for the employer, and this request was supported by delegations of citizens and almost unanimous public opinion. During the year 1936 the plant was successfully operated at the highest rate of wages paid in any industry here, and had a happy and contented group of employees."

C. I. O. Enters Scene

"Early in 1937, however, a few of its employees seem to have been carried away by the C. I. O. fever which had become epidemic in the community, and in May, 1937, without any meeting of the union or without any vote being taken, a C. I. O. organizer went to the gates of the plant and stopped work. The Cumberland employees had no grievances about wages, hours or working conditions. A strike was called, solely as a so-called 'sympathy strike,' brought about by the failure of the C. I. O. organizers to successfully organize plants of the Republic Steel Corporation at Warren, Niles and other places. The strike failed at

PARTY LEADER

Joseph H. Griffin (above) has been named chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Allegheny county. Other new officers are Thomas E. Stakem, secretary, and John R. Uhl, treasurer, while members are John P. Shellhaus, Bernard Hughes, Patrick J. Stakem and Charles F. Heller.

F. Brooke Whiting, III In U. of Va. Hospital

F. Brooke Whiting, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Brooke Whiting, 623 Washington street, and a student in the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, is seriously ill with pneumonia in the University hospital.

Hospital attaches notified the family by phone early yesterday morning, and Mr. and Mrs. Whiting, accompanied by their daughter, Anne Frances, left immediately by car for Charlottesville.

Whiting is a sophomore in the university.

Norman Jackson Jailed On Drunk Driving Count

Norman Jackson, 27, of R. F. D. Probstburg, was booked at Allegheny county jail pending a hearing to-morrow night before Judge John Keller at Probstburg on charges of reckless driving and driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Jackson was arrested last night by State Officer George J. Miller after his car collided with one driven by Henry Skidmore of Zihlman, on State Route 36 near Probstburg. No one was injured.

City Reaps Harvest

The community, however, now "reaps the harvest." One of Cumberland's highest wage paying and most substantial small industries is now inactive. There are other substantial small industries, apparently headed in the same direction.

"It is my firm belief, that no community can be economically sound nor prosper, unless there is a whole-hearted measure of co-operation between employers and employees. The destruction of a free labor market has exactly the same results in closing industry, as would the destruction of the free market for raw materials. If either is destroyed, the industries cannot survive. I am not opposed to the principles of soundly organized industrial unionism. Such unions are essential to protect the rights of the ordinary working men and women. I do not, however, have any patience with men who seize upon the sound principle of unionism, for the purpose of exploiting the working people."

May Follow Akron

"Recently, in a nationally circulated magazine, 'Liberty,' there appeared an article written by an ex-Mayor of that city, called, 'AKRON—THE GHOST CITY.' I am reliably informed that particular copies of that magazine were difficult to get, because they were bought up in large quantities in Cumberland, in order to prevent circulation. Unless the business men of this community can be made to realize that the rank and file of Cumberland's fine working men and working women, are just as sound in heart as they always were, and unless our business men can be convinced that the disorders which have occurred in Cumberland, have invariably been brought about by the same small group of misguided people who listen to the palaverings of C. I. O. leaders, then, the day may not be far distant when Cumberland will take its place alongside Akron."

No Benefits From C. I. O.

"On Sunday last, an article appeared in one of the papers, pointing out that over a thousand jobs have been permanently lost to the people of this community, as the result of C. I. O. leaders here. On the other hand, there is not a single instance where these same self-constituted leaders of the C. I. O. have produced a single new job for any person; and there are few instances where they have produced more wages for employees; nor is there a single instance where they have bettered the working conditions of any man or woman. Groups of employees have been inflamed against each other; neighbor has been set against neighbor, and violence and intimidation has set its ugly hand on the life of our peaceful citizens."

"I realize that the Mayor, even with the active assistance and co-operation of four Councilmen, cannot eradicate this vicious influence from the city, unless we receive active, open and courageous assistance from our business men, our professional groups and our working people. I have deemed it advisable to make this statement, because after my many long years of public service, I feel that unless the whole body of our citizenry reads the warning signs, that then the industrial life of this community, will, within the next two or three years, come upon disaster."

Chamber of Commerce Mobilizes For Fight to Keep Airport Here

The Chamber of Commerce had called for action today to keep the Queen City of the Alleghenies from being left high and dry without an airport and without proposed air mail pick-up service.

Arthur Weber, chairman of the aviation committee, has called a meeting of his group for Tuesday at 11 a. m. to see what can be done to save the situation. Harold W. Smith, chamber secretary, announced.

Action by the chamber was made necessary, Mr. Smith pointed out, when City Council showed its desire Monday to wash its hands of the municipal airport at Mexico Farms.

Local Flyers Blamed

Charles Heskett, city attorney, had asked Council to terminate its lease on the airport, which costs the city $300 a year, because local flyers with private hangars there drove away a pilot from Rockville who was going to pay the city for use of the field as a flying school.

"Two of these local flyers told me personally, they would make it so hot for this instructor he'd just have to fly away. That's what he did. 'But we're not leasing this field for private use and nothing else. Besides, the field isn't even carried on Department of Commerce maps as an 'emergency' field any more."

Action Delayed

Council seemed prepared to terminate the lease at once, which they have a right to do, until Mr. Smith asked that action be postponed because he was afraid it would prevent pick-up of air mail here. Council postponed decision, but the lease will automatically run out in January if not renewed.

The chamber has ambitious plans for a new airfield one mile south of the present one, but on a far superior site above the highest high water mark. Mr. Smith said, with federal aid informally promised if the city will pay its share.

Land Too Costly

Until now a satisfactory price on the land has not been obtained, he said. It is almost assured, he said, that with a good air field here Cumberland would obtain regular passenger and commercial service through the air.

Hatchet Burying Completed At GOP Meeting

Victorious and defeated Republican primary candidates spent two hours at headquarters last night burying their hatchets and sharpening up their scolding knives for the general election.

Nearly all of the seventy primary candidates were present, and the air was filled with harmony talk. Confidence glowed everywhere.

Plans were completed to meet the Gov. Nice caravan at Flintstone Friday morning and for the big mass meeting in the Armory Friday night.

The State Central Committee made customary plans for organizing the vote-getting machinery.

George Henderson, committee chairman, presided over the session.

Gonder, Smith, and Butler Wills Filed

Charitable and religious institutions and relatives receive the bulk of the estate of Genevieve M. Gonder, it was shown as her will was probated in Orphans' court, together with those of two other well-known citizens.

St. Patrick's Catholic church here is left $300 and the parish branch of the Society for Propagation of the Faith and Keating Memorial Day nursery here, $200 each. Bequests of $200 apiece are also provided for several Catholic charitable institutions elsewhere, and $500 is left for perpetual membership in the Society for Propagation of the Faith.

Trusts for life are created for Emma B. Owner, in the sum of $3,000, and for Thomas E. Gonder, a brother, in the sum of $4,000. Additional smaller bequests are made to relatives, and personal effects are left to relatives and friends. Mary R. Carpenter is named executrix.

The estate of Conrad G. Smith, merchant, is left to his sons, George A. O. Smith and Otto Conrad Smith, who are also named executors. His will, drawn on November 17, 1918, made his wife, Anna A. Smith, sole beneficiary. A codicil dated September 28, 1933, after his wife's death, gave the estate to the sons.

His daughters, Miss Ruth E. Butler, and Edna G. Davies, are named beneficiaries under the will of G. Stanley Butler, funeral director. Ruth E. Butler is named executrix. The will was witnessed December 24, 1932, by Walter C. Capper and Paul L. Hitchins.

One Hundred Youths From County Join CCC

One hundred Allegheny county youths are being initiated this week into CCC camp life.

Swelling the number previously enrolled during the enlistment period just closed, seventy-one boys left camp Monday, forty to Goldsboro, thirty-one to Garrett Park, according to Lieut. Philip J. Gundlach, ten applicants were rejected. Lieut. Gundlach reported, chiefly on account of defective vision and heart trouble. Fifty other applicants were turned away when quotas were filled.

Enlistment is for six months, but the youths may remain in camp two years if they wish. Youths from seventeen to twenty-five years of age are eligible.

The next enlistment period will be in January.

Everybody HAPPY

This is the time of the year or near about it when the taste turns towards a few roasted chestnuts. Even though the blight killed off the chestnut trees hereabouts as elsewhere years ago, there is always the possibility until this year of getting some. "Gus," who ran the little shoe shine parlor on Baltimore street near Mechanic for years and later moved to North Centre street, always managed somehow, to have a supply. But this Spring "Gus" gave way to the steady step of the shoe-shineless era and closed his boot-black emporium, and with it went aglimmering the chance for chestnuts this Fall. The sight of his smoking, sooty charcoal pot and pan will be missed but the lack of a crackling, crisp chestnut will be a calamity.

Tax Collector James M. Conway and City Clerk Samuel E. Grimmer were moaning low about City Hall yesterday because the fish in the South Branch aren't the "suckers" they used to be.

Mr. Conway was telling the sad news about two fisherman friends who fished at Stickle's Rocks from early to late Monday and caught nary a thing. And how are the taxpayers biting these days, Jimmy? Slow, too, no doubt?

A shopboy sweeping up on Baltimore street was heard to refer to our campaigning governor as though his name were "Nice." A Nice how do you do, that! And with election less than a month away!

Getting back to the fishermen in City Hall, Police Chief Oscar Eyerma stroled into the clerk's office to get a drink of water. Eying the water cooler, which had been on the bum, he asked, "the water cleared up?" Clerk Grimmer, his nose too deep in a pile of papers to notice what water the chief was talking about, replied, "The water's clear enough, but the fish are getting scarce." The chief gave him an odd glance and walked out, deciding he didn't want a drink of water after all.

A very little boy embarrassed his mama in a downtown bar by crying for the all-too-scentily clad figure of a girl on a soft drink poster. He knew what he wanted. "I wanna pretty bathin suit," he begged.

Assault On Wife Brings Return of 'Prohibition'

"Prohibition" was back in force today for William Thrasher, Locust Grove WPA worker, after he pleaded guilty to charges of assaulting his wife, Ruth, yesterday in Peoples court.

Magistrate Paul Fletcher sentenced him to 90 days in jail, but paroled him on condition that he does not drink for two years, stays away from his neighbor, Oscar O'Neill, and maintains good behavior.

The disorder in which Thrasher was involved was part of the trouble Sheriff George E. Kemp had been out to quell Saturday night when a tear gas bomb exploded in his hand.

Memories

Forty years ago, Ellsworth Brotmearke, young farmer, and Miss May Hardman, of Ellerslie, were married by the Rev. H. L. Schlinke at the home of the groom.

Charles Hite, farmer, of the Valley road, and Miss Bertha Wilkinson, daughter of Joseph T. Wilkin, were married by the Rev. Dr. M. P. B. Rice at the parsonage of Centre street M. E. church.

Chestnut shipments from Garrett county points were enormous.

Contrary to expectations the crop of buckwheat in Garrett county was a complete failure.

Henry Wurzbacher won $10 from August Wright in a wager that he could carry a bundle of shingles weighing eighty pounds or more, from the shop, Valley street, to Mertens's lumber yard on South Liberty street, without stopping.

The fourth story of the new Rosenbaum building on Baltimore street was going up.

C. E. Hambright, business manager of the Daily News, caught in a steel trap at his home on North Mechanic street, a large raccoon that had been preying upon his chickens.

Col. Maner Jenkins, of Piedmont, was re-elected for the tenth year as grand keeper of records and seals of the Knights of Pythias of West Virginia.

Lions to See Movies

Members of the Cumberland Lions club will get a "look behind the scenes" of the mail order department of a large Philadelphia store with the showing of a motion picture at their meeting at the Port Cumberland hotel at noon tomorrow.

A stag party will be held at the Shrine Country club next Tuesday.

SINGING PASTOR

Harry Box

Church of Christ To Hold Revival

Harry Box, solo-singing evangelist from St. Petersburg, Fla., will open a series of daily revival meetings at the Church of Christ, Bedford street, Sunday morning.

Mr. Box is coming to Cumberland from Texas and will be here for two or three weeks, the Rev. James H. Lilley, pastor of the Church of Christ, announced.

"Mr. Box is a hard-hitting, hard-working man without the cheap sensationalism that makes some evangelists and their methods objectionable," Rev. Lilley declared. "He preaches the 'old gospel' with fervor and power and hits the social sins of the day straight from the shoulder."

Typical of the questions he will discuss here are "Who is This Holy Spirit?" "What is the Unpardonable Sin?" and "Can Protestants Really Unite?" He will dramatize some of his tenor solos and also present several pageants.

New Telephone Directory Out

Subscriber Increase Totals 374--New Local-ity Listing

A limited distribution of the new fall and winter telephone directory was made yesterday afternoon, and all subscribers will have copies of the new directory in their hands by this afternoon. A total of 11,700 copies were printed.

A distinctive feature of the directory is the complete alphabetical listing of localities served by the directory, found at the front of the book. Heretofore it had been necessary to check listings scattered throughout the book to determine if a locality could be reached through the directory.

The color of the new book is standard gray. General contents are the same.

There are 8,000 phones listed in the new directory; this is an increase of 374 over last year's total of 7,626. Two additional pages are required for the increased number of alphabetical listings.

Despite these increases a counting shows that there has been an exodus of Smiths and Joneses at least from Cumberland. Decreases in listing of both these important family groups were noted.

City Police Squad Room Gets Permanent Radio

Cumberland's City Police won't have to wonder any more whether or not they'll be fortunate enough to listen to a radio while taking time in the squad room at police headquarters. Until yesterday the question of having a radio there depended on the calls dealer had for particular type models. If more than one type model was in the store, dealers were happy to lend one to the police but when a call came for the machine the police would be without one until another surplus one was on hand.

That all came to an end when the squad room was again radioless. The fact being called to the attention of the local Sears, Roebuck Co. manager, he promptly agreed to give the squad room a machine for keeps. Now the only problem about hearing favorite programs is the proper timing of time-outs.

Chapter to Meet

Sanford H. Buley chapter of the DeMolay Alumni will hold its regular monthly meeting at 6:15 Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

Coal Miner Hurt In Fight On Job, But Jury Denies Him Compensation

Being hit over the head with a shovel, wanting "to drive him away," according to the testimony, does not entitle a person to workmen's compensation, a jury decided in Circuit court yesterday.

The jury speedily brought in a verdict for the defendant in the claims appeal case of George L. House, 67, against Jennings George K. House, his son, the State Accident fund, and the State Accident commission.

The elder House, who lives at 404 Goethe street, was appealing the decision of the State Accident commission denying his claim for injuries received when struck over the head with a shovel while employed by his son at a small fuel mine near Mt. Savage during a dispute with the operator of a nearby mine.

The appellant claimed to have been working on a drainage ditch at the mine August 31, 1937, when he was assaulted, knocked down, beaten and choked, necessitating treatment by Dr. Thomas W. Koon.

Civil Suit Pending
The testimony heard by the jury was a transcript of that taken during the claim hearing, read by Charles G. Watson, attorney for the claimant.
